HOMECOMING IS WELCOMED

After Year and a Half Absence

"Soldier" Returns After "Seeing" Service at the Front

Battle-scarred and worn, caused by the ravages of a tempestuous sea and army hardship, the mail brought by Postmaster Lee Sunday morning of this week, the costly field glasses in a ragged case, which had been loaned to the Government by J. L. Waring, President of the Owensmouth State Bank, more than a year and a half ago, to be used in the navy service.

After the glass had lit in assuming all the Liberty Bonds he could, besides devoting time superintending the different drives and successfully putting Owensmouth over the top without a single bag or failure, he was not satisfied. When the Government sent out its call for instruments, such as field glasses, binoculars and spy-glasses, a quick response was made, without any hope of ever seeing the priceless keepsake again.

Instruments, like all volunteers, have to pass the most rigid inspection before military acceptance. This was the information received, that if the glasses proved the best under the navy regulations, they would be accepted and a check for $1.00 would be forwarded, a payment which the Government must make by law for volunteer service. At the end of the war if the glasses were not "killed" they would be returned with a letter telling of all the military engagements and differences ships it has been aboard. Three months later, Mr. Waring received the following letter, with U. S. check for $1.00:

May 14, 1918.

Dear Sir: Your prompt and patriotic response to the Navy's call for glasses was much appreciated. The glasses will be very useful in the prosecution of naval operations until victory is won. At the termination of the war, if possible, every effort will be made to return them to you.—when it is hoped that you will feel compensated for any evidence of wear, by the knowledge that you have supplied "eyes for the Navy" during a very trying period. On behalf of the Navy, I wish to thank you most heartily.

Very respectfully,
F. D. ROOSEVELT,
Asst. Sec. of the Navy.

Imbued with the patriotic desire to do its bit, the glasses, which had been of Prussian rule and the Bolshevik, were warped to the champion the principles of Democracy. Nothing further was heard from its whereabouts until the registered package came Monday morning with the following note:—

"There is being returned to you the article received from you at the Navy's call. An engraved certificate evidencing the participation of this article in the war, is now being prepared and will be forwarded to you at a subsequent date.

It is hoped that any evidence of wear or damage will be compensated for by the fact that a great service has been performed and that the historic instrument has been used to the article returned.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT,
Asst. Sec. U. S. Navy.

The glasses have been in the Waring family for twenty years, and are now in a beautiful scroll engraved on the leather case, with a footprint of the United States Navy. Mr. Waring still finds the case worth one dollar more than the glass, and it would take many dollars to pry it from him, not to mention the glasses.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Miss Elizabeth Gardner, principal of the grammar school, was a visitor at complete surprise Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bechtelheimer, by about thirty pupils and friends of the grammar school. This is the first school function of the graduating class and it proved a decided success. The evening was crowded full of pleasing entertainment and attended the warm feeling between teacher and pupils. Refreshments gave additional interest to the spirit of the evening and the social edification will have its lasting effect with many pleasant memories of the occasion.

CARPENTERS RUSHING WORK ON CANNING PLANT

The work of hammer and saw the past week, guided by skillful hands, has made considerable progress on the dehydrating plant buildings and it looks as if carpenter work will practically be over within the next week and cement work is going ahead . oddly. The plant will find ample room for its space. It is predicted soon, on its three-acre site.

At the present time further fruit buying will be done until operations start up. With a 24-hour capacity and three eight-hour shifts of help, there will be tons of fruit handled. There will be need of plenty of help and Owensmouth people see that employment is first given to all residing here or in the valley.

WOMAN'S CLUB NOTES

The next meeting of the Woman's Club, Wednesday, June 4, will be held in the church parlors, promptly "Club Men." A program of especial interest to mothers of children of school age is being planned.

Miss Gardner, principal of the grammar school, will be present and give a short talk on "The Child," from her viewpoint, and one of the club members, a successful mother, will give a paper on the same subject from her point of view.

Miss Elizabeth Smith, the primary teacher, will be with us and give two selections. A child impersonator, Mrs. Francis Jones, of Beverly Hollywood, will give readings.

It is requested by Mrs. Lindsey, who has the program in charge, that all those who can, bring their sewing items to tell some original sayings or dodings of children. Mrs. W. B. Hylen will be hostess.

FACTS ABOUT IRRIGATION

Important Topic for Rancher

Strictest Economic Methods Mean Dollars To Growers

It may be of interest to the ranchers of this district and to prospective buyers of ranch property to know what it costs to irrigate the orange groves raised in this locality. W. B. DeNure, district manager, who has charge of the dent on irrigation, is putting heart and energy in the work of the district valley. The average cost per acre for the Owensmouth district at the half rate during the month of April was as follows: Flooding, bare land for:

Alfalfa	$1.00
Beans	1.00
Beets	1.50
Flowering crops:
Alfalfa	$1.45
Deciduous trees	1.50
Deciduous trees	.82
Potatoes	1.00
Truck	1.13
Vineyard	1.00

More economical and better methods of irrigation have been practiced this year than formerly. By furrowing out the land with large furrows, three feet apart, the water is much better distributed, and a waste from run of the water is reduced.

The experiments conducted by the Government show that where land is flooded, the water soaking into the first three days is almost 50 per cent of the water applied. Where the furrowing method less than half of the surface of the ground is wet, with the effects of evaporation, and it allows the land with the furrows to be dried one to two days earlier to cultivate and prevent a crust from forming and conserve the moisture.

It seems a pity to spend hard-earned dollars for water and then through lack of knowledge or knowledge to allow gold dollars to evaporate into the air, as the rule is spending half of dollars per day. Even after the much has been furnished, the farmer can still by this up frequently by means of cultivation. If only with a little harrow, a little chimneys form, and allow the moisture to escape.

Using the Government figures of estimating evaporation, the amount for this valley during the irrigation period must be about equal to the water that prevailed before irrigation was introduced, or extension of the valley. From this it is apparent that irrigation is going to bring about a radical change in our climate, especially when we couple with this fact the extension of area of trees, alfalfa and other green crops that are being raised.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NEWS

(Contributed.)

The grammar school baseball nine defeated the Reseda team on Friday by a score of 27 to 13. Good for our boys. They are for sweet revenge.

The sixth grade will give a program Thursday, May 29, 1919. One number of interest will be a talk by Dr. King, who has just returned from France.

ELECTION DAY NEXT TUESDAY

Indications Are Favorable For Heavy Local Vote

Dr. Klingberg Will Give Address Next Monday Evening at the High School

Next Tuesday is election day. Great preparation is being made to poll a strong vote, which will result largely in carrying on a campaign to water and see that seeds will fail to exercise his or her franchise; and also to try and get a natural vote on election candidates.

Since our political strength is not strong compared with a great municipality like Los Angeles, it will be highly important that we endorse our candidates. For this reason there will be a meeting at the auditorium of the high school next Monday evening, June 2nd, at 8:00 o'clock. It promises to be the most interesting local gathering of citizens in the valley.

Dr. Klingberg of Los Angeles will be the speaker for the evening and he comes fortified with the necessary facts for the best interest of the intelligent citizen, and always careful to vote right.

No instruments have been given out for any candidate thus far, but on next Monday night a full ticket will be placed before the people, who will thus probably receive the majority vote in the upper valley. It is important that we endorse candidates at our primaries who were endorsed as candidates are in the Owensmouth Gazette. These men, with such others as the citizens see fit to name will be favored at the Owensmouth precinct next Tuesday at the polls.

The following is the ticket:

For Mayor
Meredith P. Snyder, Frederic T. Woodman.

For City Attorney
Charles S. Burnell, Henry N. James

For Member of the Board of Education (Vote for Seven)
Robert W. Anderson, Grace B. Ashley, Melville Dozier, D. K. Edwards, C. C. Edwards, Hester V. Gaffey, Lynn Helms, Charles J. McCormick, P. D. Noel, C. C. Parker, C. E. Reamer, F. W. Stedham, Bessie D. Stoddart, M. Jessie York.

For Member of the Council

Olsen, Frank E. Purcell, John B. Reeves, W. J. Sachborn, E. D. Seward, Frank H. True, Jr., Wheeler C. Ward, Charles Worthen.

Proposition
Shall the City of Los Angeles incur a bonded debt of $13,500,000 for the purpose of improving and extending electrical plants, etc., including the purchase of the Edison Company's plant at $11,000,000?

Refreshments will be revived, brain twisters and mental coasters will prevail and silent institution shown in some "stellar"forms. It should be a strong program and a good time will. The following is the complete program for the evening:

First Vice-President Edison Co. Promoted

The National Electric Light Association at its annual convention held in Atlantic City this week elected R. H. Ballard president by acclamation, for the ensuing year.

The Association has a membership representing over two billions of dollars capital invested in the electrical industry throughout the United States. One of the possibilities of Mr. Ballard's election to this important office is that through his influence the next convention of the National Electric Light Association may be brought to Los Angeles.

As this convention is conceded to be one of the largest and most influential held in the United States, the importance of Los Angeles being well represented in electrical affairs. His election to the presidency of the greatest electrical organization in the world may be considered a compliment to his ability and popularity among the big men of the industry, a recognition of the national importance of the great corporation he represents, the Southern California Edison Company, as well as the prestige of the Southern California Edison Company, and the prominence of his home city—Los Angeles.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The high school baseball nine went to bat against the "farmers" Monday afternoon, and a very fine game ensued for laurels. The score was close and the boys did credit to themselves the victors. Since both can not win, it is possible that another game will be played to determine supremacy. The score was 11 to 13, with few emphatic in saying that it was a tie.

Do not miss the lecture at the high school auditorium, Monday evening, June 2. Dr. Klingberg of Los Angeles, one of the most capable platform speakers on the issues of the day, will address the audience. It being the day before election, it is of utmost importance that every voter attend and get the message that he will leave. Keep the date open and attend.

What was a most interesting and instructive as well as educational entertainment was the moving picture at the high school auditorium last Friday evening. It was a pretty war picture with scenes in Red Cross activity which lasted most interest and instilled the patriotic spirit in the minds of the audience. It was a very comprehensive resume of war history from the early time of the most tragic moments. It included many true call scenes of the President, Kaiser in the dark hours of trial. On the other hand it gave a glimpse of the wanton disregard of German leadership to gain ambitious ends.

Francis Waring as whistling soloist and Miss Elizabeth Hall as pianist gave the musical selections with piano accompaniment. Both were at their rose. The pipe organ rendered patriotic airs during the presentation of the picture.

THRIFT STAMP GOOD FRIEND

Children All Like Saving Plan

Organization Takes Form With J. L. Waring as Chairman

It is a marvelous fact that of all the safest and most beneficial systems of saving, there is no equal to the War Savings Stamps. Now that war drives are over and financial demands are not so pronounced, it is a splendid opportunity for practicing the saving habit through the accumulation of thrift stamps.

Chas. B. McCann, a local representative was in Los Angeles Friday evening a little enthusiasm in the enterprise. J. L. Waring, President of the State Bank of Owensmouth, has accepted the appointment as district chairman, covering the Owensmouth, Chatsworth, Marian, Zelzah and Lindsey.

Last year everyone joined the organization to help the Government which was a noteworthy act from the fact that children of Germany had a mother part in the saving plan laid down by the Government. This year it is carried on for the benefit of yourself, and when the money is paid it takes root in the soil of the child mind by the satisfaction received in the work means as an livening of interest and a lasting impression of dispersing spares nickels and dimes by the hand of fate.

An organization is being effected where every school district and valley may have the privilege of joining as a choice for a certain amount of the Government for which interest is demanded. Each school district and the movement will prove an education in financial matters and a lasting impression in words.

Stamps are to be distributed throughout the schools and the teacher and pupil will join in the work. Not all, not all, for parents in the home will need the stamps. Every child and member of the household will finally find themselves with the Thrift Stamp with real personal benefit to them.

GAZETTE'S CHEERFUL NOTE

The Edison Company claims to have received answers from their advertisement in the Gazette. It was a big Chicago. If this paper has a less subscription than the "Hog Crier," which links a number of Thrift Stamps with Gazette as they do of their "Hog Crier" advertisement, it is a fact from the endorsement of many. The Gazette is appreciative of the crows marvelously through the agency of its friends in inserting the crow over to them through a trial subscription. It is a problem of mathematics that everyone should think over and ex-plain.

75 PEASTER AT AID PICNIC

All-Day Meeting a Happy Event

Splendid Program Will Be Rendered by Ladies on June 12th

Toothsome dishes of various foods prepared with culinary skill with the idea of supplying an army of hungry men sumptuously, the Ladies' Aid Society made a decided reputation for themselves the last week Saturday at their all-day meeting and picnic which was held among the shady live oaks near the Chatsworth reservoir. Mrs. W. B. Hylen, who has long since established a name for her ability on such occasions, had charge of the entertain and management the evening, which was an success. The Hall was crowded about seventy-five people.

The fun, invited by their wives and friends of the Aid members, received the invitation shortly early as there was "considerably" anticipation involved. Hungry as hounds and tempted at the sight of juicy meats well arranged, they began to store away the delicious repast without much regard for ceremony.

It was a perfect day; the breaking clouds kept the temperature down and the favorite breezes fanned over the place with gentle zephyrs. The tables were spread on the grassy lawn were laden with all manner of good things, delicacies, all of which proved substantial and satisfying. The ladies had prepared for everything provided and after every one had satisfied themselves with every of fragments taken up.

The ladies spared no pains to make everything a success, and fully realized their aim. After all festivities of the hour were dispensed, there followed a pleasant hour which all seemed was most edifying to all.

At a brief business session of the Society it was decided to discontinue the meetings, during the months of July and August, which has always been observed.

June 12th is the date set for an all-day meeting and picnic which will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. This program promises to be one of especial merit and will be held in the church room. The husbands and friends of members are cordially invited to be present. The complete program will be found in next week's Gazette. Watch for it and reserve the date, June 12th.

The program will be of exceptional merit. Mrs. W. E. Bechtelheimer, who has it in charge, has secured a Los Angeles artist to make appropriate arrangement for the occasion. The numbers will be Mrs. Katie Haas, Mrs. Norman and Mendames Kelley, Booker and Gundrum.

OWENSMOUTH OVER THE TOP

Centenary Drive Raises $2,798

Liberal Response By All Is Complimentary to the Community

With a quota of $2500 for the Centenary Drive, Owensmouth community has come forth again with a record highly complimentary to the community. Not only did the Ladies' Aid harmonizing circumstances of a financial character, but the Ladies' Aid went over the top with a total of $2798, subscribed by the people who stands for the good of themselves without the least persuasion. The Ladies' Aid drive was not short a space of time makes it commendable. Mrs. W. E. Lewis, who had had not weakened during any part of the time, and was determined to be among the people, although many treated the Gazette's cheerful note with doubt.

The fund is a part of the great world movement inaugurated by the Methodist church of which the Centenary is only one of the many denominations, in a concentrated purpose in a world organization. It is the Social Service Fund, which opened over launched and the results from the various subscribers will make a campaign for righteousness never equaled in all the world's experience.

ALL HONOR TO THE DEAD AND LIVING SOLDIERS

Today we pay honor to our dead soldiers who were the national protectors of our proud commonwealth. Today we are concerned more deeply in a fitting tribute than we may have been in the past. What our dead have never weakened of expression for the great honor the soldier of '61 achieved, yet we are today realizing more vividly what the saving of country means and it places the soldier to us in a never-to-be-forgotten way.

Independence day is a day of rejoicing over victories secured through many battles. Decoration day one on which the heart of the patriot is filled with tender and sympathetic feelings for the noble army of citizens who marched over a half century ago and fought in many battles for the principles that God ever used when willing to give up life to protect. This is a day when the heart swells with sympathy and the eye is moistened with tears as we think of those who fell, bearing the sacred emblem of our country, the nation's flag.

It is a time when the American fire is unfurled above the windowless resting places of the men who were the blue and the men who wore the gray. It is a time when those bitter and sectional animosities which once existed give place to feelings of tenderest sympathy and brotherly tenderness, when every heart experiences the feeling expressed by the great American when he said "with malice toward none and charity for all." It is with joy that the American people remember today to do honor to the memory of those who in the time of severe struggle fought for the principles which they held dear and believed to be of vital importance to the perpetuity of the national life.

HOW WILL YOU VOTE?

Next Tuesday is election day and how will you vote? At almost the eleventh hour it may be taken for granted that everyone has the mind pretty well settled on the candidates they wish to see elected. Notwithstanding this fact, we believe that deliberate consideration should be paid and that we stay with the candidates whom we can safely recommend as a fit servant to the people of our county.

We see no reason why any should fall in doing his or her duty next Tuesday. After attending the meetings this week, we should have a fair idea as to who will best serve our interests, but this is not all, we must endorse our candidates by voting as we did in the primaries.

Contested action, and then a full vote from all will tell the tale more truthfully, and at the same time place on legal file, the mandate of the men of our choice. Recognition by the city will come in due time.

Let us make our voting strength tell in this election.

OUR BOYS

In round numbers, we lost in the recent war 70,000 men, and 21,000 wounded. The cost to us was $18,000,000,000. We fought for liberty, self-government, and the development of all nations of the earth.

They used engines of war to elevate the spirit of the human race and in doing so they naturally met with casualties. They fought under the flag of the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people and for the people, a country of many governments, a perfect union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity, for which American patriots have always sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

Most of them died suddenly, but they went, every last boy with prayers upon their lips and with New Testaments in their hip pockets.

Prussian autocracy has stained his record; nothing more than an outright betrayal of the confidence of the temperate people of the entire United States. It is hard to believe that he would descend to the level of a political demagogue for the purpose of any supposed partisan advantage. If this is the motive of Mr. Chief Executive, there are no words of execration so severe enough to characterize his action.

No one has reason to doubt that North Dangos avenue will be repaired before many months. While no official announcement has been issued to that effect, there is certain evidence that bears out the assertion that contemplated improvements is a subject for which the city is not so anxious to avoid conversing about.

One hundred per cent efficiency consists in doing the thing to be done exactly right the first time trying, with the fewest motions, and with the least cost of time, energy and material. Progress consists in the achieving such profitably with the added chance that the thing to be done is the right thing.

The total Victory Loan subscriptions amounted to $5,249,953,700, or more than $750,000,000 oversubscription. All federal reserve districts oversubscribed Canada and Alaska.

To him in life a blessed, a happy privilege who "Finds tongues in trees, books in running brooks, sermons in stones, and good in everything."

Babies start to work very early in life. Some of them get a job cutting teeth before they are a year old.

SIX YEARS AGO TODAY

(Items Republished from The Gazette.)

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Padgett of Hollywood moved into their new home on Sherman Way, this week.

The roofers have been busy the past week laying the roof for the bank building and the brick stores.

James A. Craig, postmaster at Topanga, has started a general store which will be much appreciated by that community.

Governor Johnson has signed the bill appropriating $80,000.00 for boulevard from Owensmouth to ocean. Fe'a automobiliats rejoice!

BRIEF REMINISCENCE

While immense hay fields adorn the valley with thousands of hay ricks lotted here and there, it is quite a reminder of the early days when alfalfa that was grown in the valley was hay. One year the Alfalfa Meal Sugar company had a record yield of the harvesting of hay. Their entire 1000 acres were mowed in the short space of two days of time. Forty-six large mowing machines were put in commission to accomplish the task, and by the splendid effort and management of Harry Carr, who was then alive, and others in the valley, there was no delay nor accidents during the time.

From authenticated sources it was learned that the company realized about $200,000 for the hay in the stack. This was not a banner year by any means, the average yield being only about three-fourths of a ton per acre.

DENIED EQUALITY OF SEXES

Men in 1813 Had Decided Views as to Woman's Intellect and Her Sphere of Work

There lies on the desk a book published and sold by Moses Thomas, Philadelphia, bearing the date of 1813, which makes it one hundred and five years old. There are many strange things in that book, which contains "Selections From Foreign Reviews and Magazines," all of which is claimed to be "the best thought of the ablest men of the age." There is a long essay attacking a French authoress who was publishing a work on the rights of the two sexes. The reviewer remarks: "Upon the whole, we do not think that little learning is adapted to woman—one thing in a lady, so long as it has reference to her conduct, is of the first sphere of her duties.

That is far as the world had got at that time in the education of women. About seventy years afterward, with a woman honored with a degree at Oxford, which is the highest honor in mathematics, Spencer wrote a chapter of opinion concerning the quality of women's intellect.

It was maintained in the entire period by these bigoted men of the 18th that the "female intellect" was entirely inferior to that of men, and that her physical nature made it impossible for her to comprehend the great principles of science. In the time since then a woman has written the greatest war hymn of the world.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Nerve and Eye Strain.

Many nervous as well as other diseases are caused by incorrect illumination. The eye is a delicate organ, the consideration in connection with our health and happiness. Eye fatigue spoils the disposition; as that is one of the conditions given to our physical work, we find here again a reduction in efficiency and a cause for more loss of the workman's time. The eye is also mechanical, the second in physical, both, the second being a double-acts basis, show a large percentage over the cost of lighting that would be required to eliminate them. As lighting is a necessity, with exception, and perception upon the sight, then the laborer, to be efficient, must be able to see distinctly and small objects at close range with sharpness and distinction, or distinguish objects at a distance with accuracy, and to have both, necessitates of all objects to the intermediate space.

Y. W. C. A. Provides Home for Actresses at Camp Dix, N. J.

Actresses who play in the Liberty Theater at Camp Dix, N. J., find a touch of home in the Hostess House which the hostess committee of the Young Women's Christian Association, of which Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is chairman, operates for them. Because of the distance from any town where they might stay, it was necessary to provide some sort of living accommodations for the actresses. The Y. W. C. A. built the house, providing in it with all conveniences such as sewing machines, washtubs and ironing boards. Camp Upton, L. I., has a similar house.

Y. W. C. A. UNIFORMS TO CLOTHE STUDENTS

Suits Worn by War Workers Will Be Given to Penniless Students in Switzerland.

Official uniforms of the Young Women's Christian Association minus the Blue Triangle, the Association insignia, will be worn next winter by women students who have been refugees in Switzerland during the war and who, because of lack of funds, have been unable to return their native country, a desire to finish their university courses or because they have no family to which to return, will remain there next year.

Elizabeth M. Clark, who has been in Switzerland for two years under the World Student Christian Federation, has appealed to the National Student Committee of the Y. W. C. A. for clothing for these foreign students, students in Switzerland. The scarcity of clothing last year among these almost refugee students made it necessary for two girls to share one coat so that only one could go to classes or go out of doors at a time.

Four large packing cases of all kinds of used clothing, save hats, which is in good condition, have been collected hastily from women college students in the New England States, Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware by the Student Committee of the National Y. W. C. A. to be sent over in response to Miss Clark's appeal. This clothing will be dyed, cleaned and made over in Switzerland.

In addition to the clothing collected from students in colleges nearest New York a case of uniforms, which have been turned in by Y. W. C. A. workers who did war work, and the official gray uniform sisters is being sent. As uniforms are being turned in by war workers they will be claimed by the Student Committee, which will remove the insignia and prepare the uniforms so that they may be worn by those women who have been forced by world events to remain in Switzerland for several years.

Four mammoth best wagons were coupled into line and the entire contents of the car were weighed, unloaded and reloaded heavy loads. Their powerful Tuna tractor was then coupled to the rear of the train and the power applied. Contrary to the belief of many, the "iron horse" slowly moved the freight off with all possible ease.

The valley in the upper end is dotted here and there with new buildings being built and the Lake is like a city in the, building boom period. Contractors are busy in the open season territory for palatial building sites and are busy in the cities of the town.

The long rows of catalpa trees on Topango avenue are now in full bloom and are very beautiful to behold, the ones that each tree resembles a large bouquet of white blossoms. The beautiful shirt will carry the memories of those who have passed and gone, and where the catalpa is a favorite tree in those parts it is a favorite.

W. H. Keys, formerly of Los Angeles, has leased the second story flat over the Marian Pharmacy and has so use the same for rooms to accommodate the overflow of his hotel. Already he informs the public that he has all the rooms engaged but one, a good indication that Owensmouth is growing. Mr. Keys has been a good citizen from the start. He intends to put in a barber shop in the room of which will be a tonsorial artist's chair.

Owensmouth is building up a library week by week, the latest which credit to Mrs. Gallow, librarian, is due. The Independent patronage has made a demand for more books and periodicals. PAINT AS AN ASSET.

Bankers Say They Lend More Money on Property When Buildings Are Well Painted.

A'l INDICATION OF THRIFT.

One Concern Advertises 25 Per Cent. More if Repainting is Done Every Five Years.

Does it pay to paint carefully farm buildings? It is said to be one selling value of a farm when buildings are properly kept up and regularly painted? A careful inquiry of a number of leading bankers in the Mississippi valley, including Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Missouri, reveals the fact that in nearly every case the bankers did not hesitate to say that they would lend at the way from 5 to 50 per cent. more on land where farm buildings were well painted and kept in good condition. They maintain that well kept-up and well painted buildings are evidence and an indication of thrift and that the property is well cared for, and that a loan money can be safely loaned. An Illinois banker said, "Most of our bankers shows that the increased loan is due because of painted buildings is around 22 per cent.

Some of these bankers make interesting comments. One Iowa banker says that, while not especially prepared to give definite replies to questions in this inquiry, the officers would loan more money on farms where the buildings were painted than where they were not painted, and that, other things being the same houses, barns and fences are well taken care of and that it is a profitable proposition, and bankers in general consider the farmer a good risk because of his thrift, and that the "farm buildings out of repair and unpainted are often found to be more in slow pay." Such farms are rated at a lower figure and are more reluctant for loans. Where the farm buildings are well painted the loan is about one half. The president of a middle western bank says that when real estate loans are considered, well painted buildings are always taken into consideration in making the loan, and that the good appearance of the property surrounding them adds a great deal to the value. Houses and fences would be carefully observed. The President said that he has no hesitancy in saying that he would absolutely refuse a loan on farms where the buildings are not kept up and well painted. In his judgment, unpainted farm buildings would reduce the loan value at least 25 per cent.

The President says that it has been a much more willing to loan money where the buildings are well painted, and in his particular case he believes that there is more than 25 per cent. more value if the buildings were not properly taken care of. A farmer who will keep his buildings painted shows a much deeper interest in his work than one who does not. Another Minnesota bank says that well painted buildings have a much more favorable impression on the bank sometimes as high as 25 per cent. more money is loaned on these buildings are not painted. An Ohio concern says that it will loan 25 per cent. more money on a well kept farm where buildings are painted at least once every five years. A Indiana Illinois bank says that it has no fixed rule on this but it does make a decided difference when owners of farm buildings are well painted and buildings are well painted and thus well preserved the loan rate would not only be about one half as much of money borrowed would be larger. A northern Illinois bank does not hesitate to say that it would loan fully 50 per cent. more on a farm where buildings were well painted and in good order than they would on a farm in the same vicinity, but not answer the inquiry, goes on to say: "There probably are many farmers who are thrifty and who have well painted buildings to remain well painted, who have not the substantial people who live in the country keep their buildings well painted."

An Iowa bank, through its vice president, says that it would make a difference of at least 25 per cent. in favor of farms where buildings are well painted. Another Iowa concern says that it would make a difference of at least 25 per cent.

All this being true, it is perfectly evident that it is a most profitable proposition to keep the farm buildings well painted. They are more attractive and are more pleasing to the owner, but the loan value is increased by advantage, the loan value of the property would be greatly increased and the buildings would last much much longer and need less repair.—The American Agriculturist.

PAINT AND ILLITERACY.

Curious Fact Comes to Light That Localities Lacking Made Avoid Paint Also.

Washington, D. C.—A curious fact was brought to light by the last educational Bureau and the dissent of industrial Statistics here, is that in the states where illiteracy is most prevalent paint is least used. The paint referred to is the ready-mixed or barn variety, of course, for the backwoods countries have no need for the finer pigments or facial adornments. It is true, though, that the sections of all states where white illiteracy is highest painted houses are rare and painted outbuildings and barns are practically unknown. Probably the illiteracy do not use paint on their buildings because they do not understand its value as a preservative.

The Ladies' Aid met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ethel Gray.

What might have been a serious accident happened to Jack Sparks one day last week. He was driving home from San Pedro and the crank shaft of his machine broke, but aside from a little scare there was a big crash no serious damage was done.

Every one remembers big, good-natured Guy Brighton, that worked for M. A. Gray. He was selected last summer and after going through the usual preliminaries, was on the 15th of September assigned to the 54th Regt., 4th Division, Infantry, crossed over to England, was there for a while, then crossed to France, was at Lizzy three weeks, then they were moved up to the front, where he was given a team of horses and a "chuck" wagon to drive. The trucks would haul the food to close as they could, then the teamsters would haul it to the trenches, a very dangerous business, as he frequently had a horse killed. He was lucky in his driving, but saw enough of it to know that it was fierce. His regiment was in four battles. Once he was slightly gassed. He saw enough of it to be satisfied.

He said the cooks would sell the food and serve what was left to the trenches.

On April 19 he was discharged at Camp Pike, Arkansas, and is now back at his old job, glad enough to be back in the good old United States.

Probably the report that will be received with the most interest, is the one which in effect states that the whole Newhall ranch has been leased by the Union Oil Co. This ranch contains something like 49,000 acres of land, and extends from Newhall nearly to Piru, a distance of about 20 miles. These lands are of the same soil as perhaps, of the proportions to which the oil industry is liable to reach in this section.

ELLEN'S VACATION

"Is supper ready, Ellen?" asked Hiram, as he appeared in the kitchen door.

"Not quite, Hiram, but it will be in just a few minutes," calmly answered his wife, as she hurried to prepare the evening meal.

Hiram was always grumbling when the meals were not on time, and poor Ellen was oftimes discouraged.

Having eaten in silence, hastily noting the tired wife who could scarcely force the food into her mouth, he left the table and went into the kitchen, took his cap and started for the barn.

"Ellen! Ellen?" called Hiram from the barn door. "Yes," answered Ellen, rising from the table, where she had remained, sitting, too tired to move. "Bring me them milk pails, and don't keep me waiting as you did for supper. I'm in a hurry, as I have to drive over to Will Jackson's to see about a cow he has to sell."

Poor Ellen! How her feet ached and how tired she was; but she knew it was no use to complain.

"Why couldn't he have asked me to ride over to The Jackson's? It is a long time since I was over there, and Mrs. Jackson is the dearest little woman in!"

Ellen, with much bitterness in her heart, set long into the twilight. She had been wondering how she could cure her husband of his grumbling and his selfishness. "I have it," thought she, smiling pleasantly at "Will" I have a vacation. But I'll not mention a vacation to Hiram, I'll surprise him."

Next morning Ellen hurried to get her work done, so that as Hiram was away for the day there was no dinner to get, so Ellen flew round to pack up what articles she would need, and W. Prince acting the lathe ready for supper, she put her valise and went to the guest chamber in the far corner of the big house and prepared to make herself comfortable. "What a vacation; and no one's even house, too," she chuckled.

Hiram returned, and not seeing Ellen, thought she must have gone out for a few minutes and would be in presently. He was surprised at supper time, but Hiram was doomed to disappointment, for Ellen did not come. Hiram was forced to eat what was left on the table. He wondered what kept her, but had no fear of her staying overnight.

Finishing his supper, he sat down on the piazza and waited. How long he sat there he knew not, but at last he went into the house and went to bed.

Morning came and still no Ellen. "Where can she be?" he asked himself, and a fear clutched his heart as he thought how he had neglected her.

Hiram was a man who did not know not what to prepare for himself, but knowing that his wife prepared it, went into the pantry, and finding nothing but a slice of ham and a loaf of bread, he felt such a sickening feeling he was obliged to sit down. He wondered how he should get a meal with just bread and eggs. "Well, I suppose I can open a can of eggs," he said. "Wish Ellen was home. I'm not used to this housekeeping business," he muttered.

He did not think to find fault because she had not left him anything cooked. How lonesome the house seemed! Hiram wondered he was so wondered if she had taken any of her things. Yes, her coat and hat, always not in their accustomed places, and he was in a quandary what to do. "Yes, she has gone," sighed Hiram. "But where? Oh! if she would only come back! He busied himself cleaning the table, and washed the dishes and dried them after. Wednesday morning He was not used to housework, and it was awkwardly that he placed them in the neat cupboard. Ellen's day for coming in took! It was nearly noon now. Where had the forenoon gone to? He did not realize it took so much time to do housework. No wonder poor Ellen could not keep up with it, and yet, he had no idea if she would only come! "I won't say anything again if she should come back," he said. "I'm sorry I ever spoke to her about it." Hiram
