WEED CONTROL IS DEMANDED

FARM BUREAU WORK-ING ON WEED PROBLEM

The Farm Bureau Directors of San Fernando Valley as represented by Tom Green Directors S. E. Gould of Owensmouth, G. A. Allard of Zelzah, T. E. Gaylord, Chas. Hudson, J. C. Hayes of Reseda, F. J. Stangle of Chatsworth, and Mr. Hoffman of Van Nuys, are hard at work to secure action on the part of the Supervisors of Los Angeles County, on Puncture vine on city streets. These weeds are becoming a dangerous and serious menace to the agricultural interests of the Valley. Unless steps are started to control them on the city streets lands unless they are also controlled on the city streets. Railway streets are only represent a useless expenditure of money and unless the weed infestations will continue to increase and spread. Resolutions have been adopted by the above mentioned Farm Center Directors and will be presented at meetings of the Supervisors Valley. It is highly important that these petitions receive a large number of signatures so that the City Council of Los Angeles will be forced to take up the matter and order a clean up.

SHOW FAITH IN OU RCITRUS DISTRICT

CLARKSON AND EWART INCREASE HOLDINGS

Clarkson and Ewart have purchased two thirds three and a quarter miles of the Sunny Slope Ranch, on Sherman Way, and Reseda Boulevard, and one third acre lemon grove of G. Ewart, Sherman Way, and Reseda Blvd. on the east. The Williamson grove is one mile south of Sherman Way, on Reseda and is a large property, just coming into bearing, and is one of the finest lemon groves in the valley. Last night years ago for $600 an acre and now it is said to be worth more than twice as much. The Williamson grove and Ewart's grove are the only two of the very best in the neighborhood, and Clarkson and Ewart's contract increases the holdings of Clarkson and Ewart to 40 acres, all of which are in trees. The remaining 20 acres of the Sunny Slope Ranch, which is a very valuable property, completes Melrose Ranch will have to be sold, which will be planted to oranges and Salt lemons. Half of the oranges will be navels and half valencia.

The new grove just acquired will be fertilized this fall with commercial, ten tons of which will be applied to the Sherman ranch at the rate of 2 pounds to the tree. Cottonseed meal contains about 7 per cent of nitrogen and also has a strong content of potash and phosphoric acid, in proportions. Mr. Clarkson is going to direct charge of Melrose Ranch, which is now in charge of Ward Gray's home in Des Moines, Iowa, where he has been spending the summer. He is strong believer in the value of cottonseed meal for citrus orchard fertilization.

DECIDUOUS GROWERS TO HAVE BIG DAY

November the 9th will be a big day for the deciduous fruit growers of the Valley. Not only is it a big day in estimate, similar to those which have been held in other parts of the state, but it is a day of great importance to the Women's Club House. This institute is being sponsored by the auspices of the newly organized Deciduous Growers Department of the Agricultural Extension Service. Deciduous fruit growers from all over the state are coming to attend the program that will be of great value to the deciduous fruit industry in Southern California. Such a program has been developed and every deciduous fruit grower should make it a point to be present at the Club House.

The Women's Club House will provide a lunch during the noon hour, consisting of a nominal price. The committee in charge are J. C. Hayes, R. Rosser, M. Abbey, Mrs. Geo. F. L. Williamson of Lankershim, L. S. Ward, Mrs. Ward Gray, Mrs. Chas. Hedges, and C. E. Tindall and Mrs. Owensmouth. The program as arranged is as follows:

10 A. M.

1—Deciduous Fruit Growers Department, What It Is and What It Can Do for Southern California—Mr. C. Hodges, Farm Advisor, Los Angeles County.

2—Pruning Results During the 1922 Season, by Vincent F. Blanchard, Assistant Farm Advisor, Los Angeles County.

3—Improvements in Quality of Canning Fruit—by W. B. Cornelison, Secretary, Southern California Canners Association.

4—How to Dry Apricots—by H. C. Dodge, Fruit and Apricot Growers Association.

1:30 P. M.

1—Backyard Commercial and Brown Rot of the Apricot—Dr. J. T. Barrett, Citrus Experiment Station.

3—Methods of Irrigation and Soil Fertilization—by J. C. Holmes, Assistant Farm Advisor, Los Angeles County.

4—Improvements in Quality and Marketing Methods for Fresh Fruit—Discussion.

BEAN HARVEST IS NOW COMPLETED

The month of October was a wonderful month in the bean business. Prices on all varieties have moved up, and at times in a very excited manner. Michigan, Colorado, New York and Idaho have shared with those in California in the rapid market advance. Prices have been generally advanced to three cents per pound.

California Lima Bean Growers Association reports that the week ending October 28 has been one of the very best weeks for the sale of beans, as sales amounted to nearly thirty thousand sacks. The market has been very active, with the price ranging from $7.75 to $7.95 on regular lots.

It cannot be expected that the market will continue to be as active during November, as the bulk of the crop has been sold, and only small lots could not under any circumstances, more than the October market on lima and other bean varieties.

Investigation seems to show that there will be a shortage of the number of the beans from the growers, from the growers, thousands of acres of beans have been in the ground completed. This creates a strong demand for cultivated beans with light stocks and presents a firm and forthcoming market for the bean crop of the Southern California for the next few weeks may be relatively quiet.

OWENSMOUTH HIGH STILL UNCONQUERED

Lancaster were visitors to Owensmouth on Friday, and the home boys succeeded in gaining their third consecutive victory, defeating the Lancaster team by a score of 13 to 0, second quarter when after continued hammering Lancaster's goal line, Brown, Brickstead failing with the kick, the ball was given to the home team on the match too seriously most to adequately describe the game. The Lancaster team was composed of the Boys. This sketchers was especially noticed in the backfield, Lancaster's backfield came within an inch of drawing the Owensmouth boys, Lancaster's line was strong and Owensmouth's line was weak. One boys will certainly take Lancaster's scalp Friday of this week with a greater determination and will of the best is an adequate team to bring the League honors home to Owensmouth. We wish them success.

Every automobile in the Community should carry a full load of fans over Fernando on Friday and give the boys the good support.

PRUNING DEMONSTRA-TIONS TO BE HELD

Although the long pruning season has been shown at demonstrations in the different deciduous fruit districts of Southern California for the past four years, a survey of the orchards during the present season has indicated that there is still need for a thorough understanding of the details of this method of pruning. The most glaring mistake has been the leaving of too much wood in the trees with the result that the trees are not able to produce trouble breakage and small sized fruit of poor quality.

The demonstrations on the prune or methods to use in adopting the long pruning system to conditions prevailing in the deciduous districts of Los Angeles County, have been arranged by the Farm Advisor, assisted by a number of prominent growers and the Farm Bureau Centers in all deciduous districts. The schedule of the demonstrations by the Farm Bureau Center Advisor, V. F. Blanchard is as follows:

Wednesday, November 15, 1 P. M. Lankershim, at place of F. L. Williamson, El Side St., between Whitsett and Pacoima streets, also at Claude Ewart's place.

Friday, November 17, 1 P. M. Van Nuys, at places of W. F. Clarke and Chas. Bennett, on Sherman Way between and Woodman Streets.

Tuesday, November 16, 1 P. M. Zelzah, at place of Frazis Bordwell on Tampa Ave. between Sherman Way and Vanowen Streets.

Friday, November 17, 2 P. M. Chatsworth, at place of Mr. Wm. Fletcher, 1 block west of school house.

DISTRICT REP-RESENTATION

JA ON BALLOT

Among many of the propositions the voters of the city of Los Angeles are to consider and vote upon in the November election is the very important proposition of District representation. This proposal should greatly the unanimous approval of the electorate of Los Angeles for the San Fernando Valley section because of its great size and population and need of representation.

Under the present charter provision there are divided, by law, into 15 councilmen of the city council who are chosen without regard to any special place of residence so long as they are residents of the city.

Under this system of politics, all the members may reside within the same section of the city and the city. But one member of the present council resides of that section. Two reside only 12 block apart on the same street, and all the remaining members of the council live in the section of Vermont.

The growth of the city is so rapid and its business is so vast that an amendment of the charter of the council is imperative to properly administer the affairs of the city.

Under the amendment the city is almost entirely created and carved out into 15 districts, of very hard, of district representation.

Members of the lower house of Congress, of the State Legislature, of the Board of Supervisors, of the board of Education, of School Districts and a large portion of the public bodies are elected by representatives from legally defined and limited districts.

In a city of such large area and such diversified interests, the detailed characteristics of the various districts, whose constants, rapid growth in all directions, is a necessity for proper representation and election for the city council of representatives who will adequate to adopt for its legislative needs.

The proposition is of vital interest to the citizens of the San Fernando Valley and the Sherman section of the city of Los Angeles, with possibly a few minor adjustments, the proposition is adequate to meet the local and special problems are very different from those of other sections of the city such as San Pedro, the central business district, or outlying districts.

With due regard to equable population and area, and to the interests of the various communities, the proposition provides each with a local resident of the district as a member of the council. Certainly, the local residents members of the council will be better able to legislate for and look after the interests of the local communities than is possible under the present system. Such members will have special opportunity for service to the city as a whole and to the interests of the people of the district system adoption. The adoption of the amendment will be a step of the charter of the city of Los Angeles ship in the council is but little, and the benefits therefrom will greatly overbalance such, whatever it may be. Certainly, the district representation will then be more of a practice and will be adopted in our city, than not.

SOCIAL TONIGHT

There will be a church social in the auditorium of the high school tonight beginning at 7:30.

It will be in the form of a "Dedication" Social, to welcome Dr. Beery who have returned to the pastorate for another year. Refreshments will be served by the Ladies Aid and a short program has been planned by the pastor.

There will be some unique entertainment and a good attendance is expected to attend. Newcomers especially welcome.

DRAINGE NEWS

The Los Angeles River Valley Association met at the Reseda School-House on Friday night of last week. Twenty and about eighty were counted membership books, should turn in same to him so that he might be able to make an exact report of the number of members. It was stated that Mr. Mulholland had sent an engineer to the district to survey the drainage system and that as soon as the work the Surveyors report was handed in Thursday night, he will present trying to determine just where the channel should be constructed to give the low the greatest course of the Valley and the greatest benefit to the Valley. Mr. Mulholland was discussed and it was decided to appoint a committee to wait on Supervisor Lee of Wilbur Avenue district North of Sherman Way and to determine where the best place would be to put the drain.

LAWYERS BILL AIMS TO FORCE FEES FROM PUBLIC

LAW WOULD DRIVE BUSINESS IN ATTORNEYS' OFFICES.

The Lawyers Bill, which will appear on the ballot as Proposition Number 11, is part of a national movement by lawyers to legislate themselves into attorneys' offices, according to a statement issued by the Public Rights Committee, San Francisco California, an organization formed to oppose adoption of the bill at the November election. Representative business and professional men and realty boards presidents of Northern California comprise the committee, of which Marshall Hale, San Francisco merchant, is chairman.

Statements by proponents of the bill that only certain banks are opposed to the Lawyers Bill seem to be positively by the fact that no bankers whatever are found among the men who form the Public Rights Committee. The statement issued by the committee says:

"A certain class of lawyers is seeking legislation for the type of business transacted by this committee. These have been successful through their influence in the legislature of a number of states in securing the enactment of similar legislation. Never, however, has the legislation been submitted to a vote of the people. This will be the first time when the Lawyers Bill is submitted to the people of California in November.

"The cause of this legislation in California was not the practices of certain trust companies, although the lawyers seek strenuously to make the people believe the bill is to curb certain of these practices, notably the drawing of wills. It may be said in reply to that argument that if this had been the real object of the legislation a simple bill might have been drawn for that purpose without arousing the widespread opposition that the proposed measure has encountered.

Fight for Patronage.

"As a matter of fact, and the evidence is incontrovertible, the lawyers responsible for this type of legislation want to go a great deal further than stop a few trust companies from drawing wills. Their object, pure and simple, is to get legislation to be passed any corporation or individual from giving free any service for which an attorney might be employed and for which an attorney might charge a fee.

"In the growth of American business there has developed, in response to a public demand, a service on the part of financial and business institutions and a great variety of business agencies, which, if strictly interpreted, is a legal service. The growth of this type of service has developed into commercial law is taught in our schools, business colleges and universities. Practically in every line of business nowadays customers bring questions involving some simple point of business law and times are answered freely.

"Obviously if all business law matters, all the simple questions involved in business and banking practice were referred to the offices of attorneys, the legal profession would be made more lucrative than it is at present. The Lawyers Bill would have that effect. It would be a bonanza for those lawyers who now, in their overcrowded profession, complain of lack of public patronage, giving them a monopoly of a knowledge of the law and a monopoly of the right to market that knowledge."

Ancients' Wisdom.

A great civilization flourished in the valley of the Nile some 3000 B. C. These Egyptians worshiped the dung beetle, the scarabaeus, possibly recognizing its scavenging powers. The well of Joseph, near the great pyramid, is excavated through nearly 300 feet of solid rock. The ancient listeners were the founders of real public health. The laws of Moses, who was born about 1600 B. C., the first hygienic code known, apply about as well today as when first promulgated.

Masterpieces "Blue Bird."

Maurice Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird" is a fairy story. Some Egyptian author has said of it: "This 'Blue Bird' of mine is just a fantasy, a fairy tale. We all seek happiness, do we not? Well, the 'Blue Bird' is happiness—the bird that is never caught. Quite simple, just a story for children—of all ages. Some people see mystic meanings in it, but I—I see none. It was a distraction, a holiday task."

HIS MISTAKE

He longed to feel the road to fame, But not a highway was there.

He thought it glory there must be A long path that he should see,

But every road to which he came Possessed a terrifying sense.

He never thought that fame might lurk Along the dreary path called Work.

He never thought to go and see What marked the road called Industry.

Because it seemed so rough and high He passed the road to derision by.

Yet had he taken other way He would have come to fame some day.

PRIZED AS ENEMY OF SNAKE

Ichneumon Cherished in India Because of the Number of Deadly Reptiles It Makes Away With.

Some thousands of people are killed every year in India by snake bites. Various remedies and preventives are tried, but the sum of the deaths, nevertheless, shows no appreciable diminution. Nature, however, is supposed to be not quite helpless in the matter. The ichneumon, or mongoose, is cherished for its hatred of all snakes and also because it destroys large numbers of crocodile eggs.

Snake and Ichneumon.

Some years ago, a cobra had taken up its home in the hollow of its neck. The snake speedily released the officer, and a terrible fight went on between the two. At times the snake bit its assailant, who was proof for a few seconds into the bush to not certain leaves—an antidote to snake poison—and then dashed back to carry on the duel, which continued until the serpent was killed. The Indian plant is thought to be a sort of willow, probably Salix the genus of South America—so called from the note of the bird known as the serpent-eating bird which is said to eat freely of its leaves. But one is a quite certain as to the name and appearance of the plant the clever ichneumon makes use of as an antidote to snake poison. His discovery works speedily make a fortune for the lucky finder in India. The ichneumon is cherished for its hatred of all snakes and also because it destroys large numbers of crocodile eggs.

Planters Import Monkeys.

Thousands of monkeys recently plucked the harvest of coconuts from the trees on the plantation of Fred Pupe, Peach, at Rio de Janeiro. The monkeys, A gunny substance attached the trees, and natives could not reach them to pick the nuts.

The monkeys were imported from the interior of South America. Workmen placed them up the trees and began throwing stones at the animals. The monkeys grabbed coconuts and returned the fire. Thus the trees were cleared in a comparatively short time, and with little expense.

Built Nest on Tombstone.

A stone rock selected for its nest the leg of a dombosse statue in Cincinnati cemetery, in Highgate, and there assembled the twigs and grass necessary to provide a home in which to rear her family. At the time a picture was taken the bird was sitting guard over the nest, which contained five eggs which soon will be hatched. Ghosts evidently have no terrors for the dombosse bird, or else this one was not superstitious.

TOTH Had Had Fast.

An Omaha farmer lost one of his little pigs in the river. The same day a little child went into the river. A few days later he saw a snapping turtle and after killing it, brought it up to his house where he cooked it and ate it for supper. Half of the child and the whole of the little pig, except one front leg.

"Surprising," replied the keeper. "We've taught him to pick money that has up there. Try him with half a dollar."

Before you could say the elephant, the man ran to his trunk and put it in a hole which hung high on the wall.

"That's extraordinary," said the smart man. "How let me see him take it out and hand it back again."

"We haven't taught him that yet!" retorted the keeper, blandly.

FITTED WITH ENEMY'S LEG

Confederate Veteran Has Probably Unique Memorial of the Conflict Between the States.

Many interesting incidents of the Civil war were brought out in connection with the recent grand Confederate reunion in Richmond. One of the most remarkable, and an absolutely true story, is that of a "Yankee" artificial leg which came into the possession of a Confederate officer.

Marching in the parade the other day was Capt. J. N. Ballard, wearing a leg that probably belonged to Colonel Dahlgren of the northern army, and which Captain Ballard has been using for approximately sixty years.

Colonel Dahlgren, after losing a leg in one of the earlier battles of the Civil war, replaced it with a costly artificial one. He later fell another wounded in a skirmish at White's tavern, near Richmond, in 1864, at the hands of J. R. Stuart's men. He accidentally had left his artificial leg in a wagon in charge of Monroe Cox, who possessed it to Captain Ballard, an officer of Mosby's command who had lost a leg in the war. The leg was a perfect fit, and ever since Captain Ballard has been wearing it and probably will carry it with him to his grave.

"Dead" Mail Would Cover Town.

Dead, or unidentified letters received by post offices throughout the United States during one year would completely cover a full-sized town. Not a blade of grass or a speck of ground would be seen if the letters were laid flat on the ground.

During the fiscal year just recently ended, there were 10,000,000 letters sent to the dead letter office through carelessness in addresses. This amount is reported virtually every year, it is said.

The dead letters, laid side by side, would cover 1,270 feet, each 20 by 100 feet. There would be some 30,000,000 square feet entirely covered by mail.

Mother Hen Proud of Fresh.

A chicken which is quadruped was hatched out among a brood of other normal chickens in a New York man's poultry yard. The runaway bird has its legs arranged so as to be able to run along on all four, just like a cat, and is apparently healthy and is parking away with an agility as good as that of any of its two-legged brothers and sisters. The strange quadruped is a Red Wyandotte and the matter has is attracting crowd is clucking with pride at having hatched out a marvel.

Preserve Life of Fresh Colt.

A two-legged colt, a remarkable freak of nature, was born at Gerry, Mass. According to the veterinary surgeon, there are signs of even the stumps of forelegs. The colt is being fed a special preparation of milk in an effort to keep life in the body. When the colt has acquired sufficient strength, it will be "credited," that is good upon its hind legs with the four-quarters wrapped up from the rolling; in this way it may live for years.

Lately there is talk of an ancient ruler who was an honest man, and just was his subjects. He is called Asoka. Of Victor Hugo it is said that once when a word used in one of his poems was criticised as "not French," he calmly replied: "I'll be one." The story may not be true, but it might have been, for no doubt, if occasion had arisen, Victor Hugo was quite capable of saying just that, and of believing it, too. Moreover, his confidence in his power was not without excuse or even reason, for in his day his right to increase the French vocabulary was about as good as that of anybody else.—New York Times.

CULLING FOWLS FOR MARKET

To Make Best Possible Returns Every Hen in Flock Should Be Layer—Wasted Cost Little.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every boy of girl having poultry normally wishes to earn as great money as possible. To do this every hen should be good layer. All cockerels, except those kept for breeding purposes, as well as pullets that lack vigor and vitality, should be eaten, canned for home use, or sold as soon as they are large enough, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Selecting or "culling out" the hens this are poor layers and putting out for market the cockerels least likely to develop into good breeders is commonly called "culling" or culling for eggs and for market.

The best time to cull the hens is during August and September, usually from August 15 to September 15, for at that season the hens are molting and which are the good layers and which are the poor layers. At this time of year hens which show signs of laying or are laying and have not molted usually are the ones that have been the better layers during the entire season, and the hen that lays best during her first year usually will lay best during her second and third years. She is, therefore, the one to keep. It is not often advisable, however, to keep hens of the heavier breeds, such as Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, or Brahmas beyond their second year, or the smaller breeds, such as the Leghorns and Anconas beyond the third year, as they seldom prove profitable. You can learn all about the various breeds necessary to pick out the good and the poor layers by reading Farmers' Bulletin 1112, which can be obtained by writing to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

PORTABLE HOUSES ARE BEST

Make It Possible to Keep Young Growing Stock Free from Unsanitated Land.

On a recent visit to a large poultrical poultry farm, we were observed that good use was being made of a number of portable poultry houses. These were of good size and were on runners made of heavy joists. The runners were braced against each other, so that the joists could be bolted to the front and the horses hauled anywhere. This made it possible to use the young growing birds on fresh, unsanitated land, and to move the houses anywhere on good lot of fresh grass.

When the movable houses were pulled away from each place where they had been for a few weeks, the grass was scarcely bent and showing into the soil. This nourished the grass and improved the land. In no case was the sod eaten down till the ground was bare.

For small chicks the same plan would small coops on two wheel that could easily be pushed from place to place by hand. In this way they never were troubled with gapes or contaminated soil.

POULTRY NOTES

Look out for flies when your chicken look downcast.

Eat or sell all your surplus cockerels before commencing on the pullets.

The very early pullet is apt to molt in the fall and be no more profitable for laying purposes than the hen.

Put the coops for your little chickens as high in the yard as possible. A knoll covered with grass is preferable; then a sudden shower will not drown them.

Where healthy fowls are used for breeding purposes, and they are housed in properly ventilated and arranged houses, and are fed a proper ration for the purpose in view, disease is practically a total stranger.

A LOOSELY DRAFTED AMENDMENT

San Francisco, Calif. November 1. Kings Tax Bill was to the basis in raising money by taxation in California, but if the people vote the Water and Power Act with its bond issue of $200,000,000, and with the accruing interest and sinking fund which must be paid before any water can be delivered to the city, they will never ever a skyscraper, where I built only a bungalow." Senator Hiram Johnson of Kingbut author of the King Tax Law and recognized leader of California progressive studious economists, in referring to the Water and Power Act, said last night:

I Senator King renowned any intention of increasing the powers of Water and Power Amendment to the Constitution, either for or against public or private ownership of public utilities. I voted for the Water Amendment because it is loosely drafted and because it includes nearly all kinds of personal and private business and places them within the hands of a State Commission which has power to take over the control of the material business and industrial life of the state, and, by such assumption, private concerns and have been the predominating factor in developing the farm lands of California and creating the cities and towns which are scattered throughout the rural communities.

"I am not in sympathy with the amendment because it contains provisions which place it within the power of five unknown men to rail practically every business in the State—your business, my business and everybody's business—and I feel it my duty to give the people of the State of California a wide warning against the adoption of this unusual, ill-conceived and carelessly drawn act.

The Senator explained that the mess we was an amendment to the Constitution and not a statute, and that it contains a provision, by another Constitutional Amendment,

"This State Legislature", he said, "composed of senate and assembly, and its subject to vote by the Governor elected by the people, can only vote $300,000 in one year as an appropriation. The Constitutional amendment appropriates $100,000,000 the interest alone upon which, at five per cent, amounts to $25,000,000 with an annual sinking fund of $10,000,000."

Passing from point to point in his address, Senator Johnson said, he was asked what the property which it is proposed to take over by the State and place in the hands of an operative board, three of whom constitute a majority, would be taken out of taxation, and an equal amount of money would be added to the cost of the remaining property in order to defray expenses of government. He questioned the adequacy of $100,000,000 to do the job, calling attention to the fact that the development programs now being worked out and projected, would, in view of the phenomenal demands of a growing community, amount to one billion dollars, exclusive of the present investment in electrical properties in the State. Calling attention to the loose manner in which the Amendment is drawn and the unlimited powers of the operations on behalf of their souls, attack, he said, it would be subject to almost interminable litigation and if carried to the Supreme Court of the United States, as is undoubtedly would be, would prevent litigation from at least five years, during which time no financing of hydroelectric properties could continue and no money could be borrowed in every on the development program which will end from 1922 on, approximately $100,000,000 per year. This would so disorganize the State, he said, that a shortage, such as menaced the country the latter part of and which came near causing a great disaster.

"If there are four members of your family, and decided that the world power, or should the Water and Power Act be adopted, the State of California, You should have a deed of place a mortgage of $644.00 on your home. Your indebtedness has now a debt of $1116 per capita, as compared with $5.47 per capita in the State of Illinois, the figures are taken from the latest available statistics. The bonded indebtedness of California is much greater than that of any other State, with the exception of New York and Massachusetts. If the water and power act is adopted, the indebtedness of the people of the State of California, the debt would represent over forty per cent of the aggregate debt of all the states in the Union. Your individual per capita of this debt would be $145.90 from your present per capita, and the sum per capita would apply to your wife, your child and your self.

"If the State goes into the power business," said Senator King in conclusion, "from eight to ten years will be required to build up a market for the electric power, and in the intervening period, taxes and assessments would be expected, but interest and sinking fund would be accumulating while the slow and uncertain work of developing a market was being carried on. In the meantime the people would be obliged to pay interest at six and one-half per cent, and would be called upon to make good the money, and that is the kind of money that the Water and Power Act would impose upon you?

OWENSMOUTH OPEN POINTS

Modesty may be a virtue, but the merchant who stays out of the advertising columns is not the one who thinks about the business he is doing.

A wise woman never fains unless there is a handsome man nearby to catch her when she falls.

Most any office can stand an ship any notice and tell at a glance if the subscriber's subscription to his home own paper was paid up.

There are not half enough of mesquitos in Europe—except making both ends meet.

Honesty may still be the best policy but spry now and then a newspaper editor sees or hears things that lead him to disbelieve it.

About the only time the average man thinks he has too much check is when he goes to shave.

Another thing we've never been able to understand is why most men attribute their success to brains and their failures to bad luck.

European nations have reached the point where they realize that a smart dog keeps on good terms with his master.

The boy who can pass through a room full of fragile ornaments without over will never amount to anything.

A Chicago man wants a divorce because his wife hasn't spoken to him for 10 years. Maybe she thought she had nobody to talk to.

Instead of political orators say things that sound well but that usually mean very little.

No matter how great a philosopher a man may be, we've never yet found one who could figure out how he came to catch a cold.

BRYAN IS FOR RANDALL

While in Los Angeles last week to address a great gathering of people in favor of the Wright law, William Jennings Bryan spoke in public statement regarding the congressional contest in the ninth district. He said:

"As a believer in prohibition I feel it my duty to say that I am proud to vote for Charles H. Randall because of his splendid service in prohibition which has lifted the state to heights as a democrat I would be glad to vote for him because I stands with the masses on all economic questions.

The eighth grade of the Grammar School had a most enjoyable Hallowe'en party on Friday evening. Beginning "my Tuesday evening" the eighth grade was present along with Miss Garland and Miss Green. Games and Ghost stories appropriate to the occasion were enjoyed by all.

SHERLOCK HOLMES AT HIGH SCHOOL

"Sherlock Holmes" starring the great John Barrymore will be shown at Owensmouth High School, Friday evening, November 3. This is the same wonderful production which last week completed the greatest box office record in the Majestic Theatre, Los Angeles. Owensmouth is very especially fortunate in securing this extraordinary picture for Owensmouth at a time as soon after its completion as possible. Barrymore's work is generally conceded to be the most outstanding performance of his career. Critics believe it to be the best known character in fiction of the present generation and times. Many years and fame have been carried over the civilized world until mere mention produces the same conjures up a vision of a most remarkable personality, capable of accomplishing the strange, the words, Sherlock Holmes means a detective of amazing intelligence. The stories in which he figures have been translated into all languages and have carried his fame into every nook and cranny on earth.

Barrymore's portrayal there will be a medium two reel comedy written by Tom Cooper, making an entire one on reel show. Some show we claim, so come early. Picture starts at 8:15.

LOCAL MAN TO RIC OPEN GRANITE PIT

The pit belonging of the old Patson Horse ranch one and half miles south of Van Nuys has passed on Van Nuys avenue is to be opened and operated by Mr. Harmon. Mr. Harmon expects to install new loading facilities, also to construct a good road from Van Nuys boulevard to the pit. He will be able to take care of all orders from the upper end of that valley and he will be able to take care of the lower end of the valley. This is optimistic, it is a known fact that now is the best time to buy decomposed granite in 50 packs much better with rain, it is very serviable for driveways, walks and general improvements around the home. Decomposed granite for sale. Jeffery arrival yesterday.

Gold Australian Birds.

Among the odd birds of Australia are the black swan, the lyre bird, the honeysucker and the brush turkey. Then there are several mammals whose young are produced from eggs like those of a bird, and then nursed by the mother to maturity. Among these animals are the duck mole, echidnii and the porcupine ant-eater.

COMMUNITY CHURCH AFFAIRS

On Sunday morning last, Dr. Dyer brought into the vea "The Parable of one of our Paul with nine ann hand. Another was the Prodigal Son, declaring these words grips the approach. Dr. Dyer said that a prodigal in the days when pioneers were subjected to hardships and privations, was a man who was unable to stand the stress as his friends, and when he had finished he was ready and willing to order to put the personal touch. This written in his mind will be forgotten that he asked that it should be spread upon his tombstone.

Dr. Dyer showed a prodigal who did the work of the world.

He. Those who have physical, mental and spiritual natures function properly are the prodigals and the work is of the highest type. The world needs prodigals, men who are willing to give everything they could and do good work.

Dr. Dyer's sermon was a most rugs whatsoever good work they achieve in their world. Remember, he tried hard to be patient with the narrow-minded, high and the critical person, but we should consider their environment and troubles and be patient.

Dr. Berry appealed to all to have patience and forbearance with our fellowmen. Jesus had patience with the worst type of sinners because he looked under the exterior and saw the good of good and the possibilities of a better and nobler life.

W. C. C. C. HOLDS HALLOW'EN PARTY

WOMAN'S COMMUNITY CLUB OF OWENSMOUTH

The regular meeting of the W. C. C. C. held on October 19 was turned into a Hallowe'en party. A most beautiful supper was served by the hostess, Mrs. Jas. Lowe. Mrs. Lillian Day, Mrs. Marion Heming and Mrs. Geddes. The tables were decorated by and places marked with Hallowe'en Pumpkins. Prizes were given for a hair from old man Jack o'Lantern's whiskers.

Difficult enough it was to get down to business after such a big dinner and so good a time, a most important business meeting was held. Plans were made for the dance to be given the night of Vanity Fair, November 2. Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. Day and Mrs. Geddes where most excellent cooks as their dinner will be very popular.

The Vanity Fair program in the day was given over to work on prizes for the Vanity Fair. The prizes right is not for all and the ladies are busy. The committee has made good work in the preparation and attendance at the Vanity Fair by all the ladies is expected.

The next regular meeting is to be on next Tuesday, November 7.

OWENSMOUTH AND SAN FERNANDO WEST TOMORROW

One of the greatest events of the season as far as sports is concerned will be staged tomorrow afternoon when the High School boys meet San Fernando in what will be a battle royal. Mr. Ed. Price, coach of the local team, is confident that his team should go on San Fernando and root for the boys and help them to bring home the bacon.
