OWENSMOUTH, CAL., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1917.

The Gazette is informed on trustworthy authority that this end of the valley is legally entitled to a Justice Court. If a strong petition is presented to the proper authorities the matter can probably be satisfactorily arranged. The Chamber of Commerce seems to be the proper body to take up this question.

The Local Exemption Board for this Division has completed its labors for the first draft. The members of the Board and the examining physicians received no compensation, not even expense money. Figured at $4 a day the Board members rendered the Government more than $400 worth of gratuitous services.

Like a thunderbolt from a clear sky comes the statement from President C. A. Worthington of the Vanomar Producers that the Association is in such deplorable financial condition that it can no longer conduct its own affairs, but is compelled to turn the Van Nuys and Owensmouth plants over to a subsidiary concern whose only assets, so far as our information goes, are the THIRTY DOLLARS paid in at the time of organizing.

What has become of the TWENTY-TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS paid in by stockholders in the Vanomar Producers?

What has become of the FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH OF REAL ESTATE donated by the Board of Control as a bonus to the Association?

What has become of the FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS reported to have been cleared from the bean contracts?

Any information which will elucidate the perplexing situation will be gratefully received by the people of the valley.

HAD EYES, BUT SAW NOT.

Then She Realized What It Actually Meant to Be Blind.

"Were you ever blind for an entire evening of your life—blind in the midst of a jolly company who were sewing and chatting and didn't in the least realize your plight?" asked a social worker, recently. "That was what happened to me not long ago, and I must say it was a most uncomfortable experience. I sympathize with persons who have lost their sight now as I never did before."

"You see, I went to call upon a young girl from my home town who is being educated in a private institution for the blind. I had been to see her before, and so I was prepared for the way her companions crowded about me, felt my clothes, my hands and my face and remarked everything I had on, saying, 'How becoming her hat is—how pretty she looks!' and so on. Nor was I surprised when my friend conducted me through the classrooms, pointing out the new work and displaying some fine lacework she had started that morning, quite as though she could see it all."

"But on this visit, for the first time, I was invited to stay for supper and spend the evening with the girls. I was delighted to accept the invitation and enjoyed the meal, which was served by sighted waitresses in a well-lighted dining room. But after that my experience changed. We walked from the dining room into dim halls, and as we mounted the stairs to the sitting room we walked into utter darkness. I began to envy my friend, who tripped lightly by my side, while I could only grope my way awkwardly."

"Once in the sitting room I felt for a chair and dropped into it, waiting for the lights to be turned on. But the laughter and the chatter went on unconcernedly about me, and after a few minutes it dawned upon me that lights were not necessary in an institution for the blind at night; that the sitting room was no darker for those girls than it had been all through the beautiful, sunny day I had enjoyed so much."

"As my eyes grew a bit accustomed to the darkness I could perceive that the girls had drawn their chairs up around mine and were busy with embroidery and lacemaking as they talked."

"And for the rest of the evening I sat there trying not to let my blindfolded feet me, not to appear stupid when the girls, forgetful of my affliction, held up their work for my inspection. That was the time I realized what it really is to be blind."—New York Press.

MAGNETISM

WHEN people eat they think its purpose is about the same as a man uses mortar to stop up the holes in the plaster; or, as a painter uses putty to plug up the nail holes; or, as varnish is used to cover up stains and scratches to make furniture look clean and new.

But the real object of food is to keep us connected with the earth. Out the telegraph wire and the instrument stops clicking at once. If people were content to live in constant connection with the earth they might have been able to live as long as the earth lasts, but they choose to operate in discord with the earth's forces.

Magnetism is condensed motion. When magnetism is expanded, or set free, it produces force; the same as a clock spring unwinding releases force. Instead of cogs and joints and levers magnetism works by fluids that flow into and out of the cells and tissues of the body.

The tissues and cells are formed like hollow tubes and sacks and the food goes into these sacks in the form of fluid and after remaining in the sacks for a space of time it is changed into moist gas, like steam, and the steam infuses the sacks; the same manner as water turned into a limp, soft piece of hose causes it to straighten and be plump and full.

Then the steam condenses and falls to the bottom and leaks out and is carried away by the veins and perspiration. Food and drink are carried into the cells and tissues by the arteries and under pressure of violent exercise by the muscles. Food don't produce gas until it has lain in the cells from noon through the night until tomorrow morning or the second morning after it is eaten. In the morning is the proper time to work and exercise to use the old food so as to be ready for the new food which is to be eaten at about noon.

Magnetic force is released most rapidly early in the morning. As the air is getting warmer and the sun's rays are increasing in velocity, digestion and health and labor are all progressive in a forward direction that is favored by the position of the sun from east toward the west. If we have the element of progress in our blood we will not be finding that which is contrary to progress. Contrary to progress is contrary to reason. Unreasoning is dead thought.

As the cells, or sacks, are emptied of their contents the new food is drawn and forced in by muscular contraction. If you don't work or exercise briskly during the forenoon you have no need for food. Possession of means and wealth is a misfortune. It robs us of the necessity for labor and reduces the mind from restraint and curtailment. And the mind only improves when taxed and weighted heaviest. Wealth causes us to not care whether the sun shines or not. If we do not appreciate the sun shine we cannot live by its effects as exerted on fruits and vegetables.

Magnetism is cold but electricity is hot. Cold is from the earth but heat comes from the air. The use of cold is to resist the heat of the air. When magnetism is set free in the body it produces activity of the body fluids but set free in air, magnetism produces lightning.

Magnetism is a positive action but electricity is negative. Positive means to possess but negative means to neglect. The only way to possess land is to crop it in such manner as to retain its magnetism. To possess land is to keep it able to produce magnetic food crops. Otherwise the crops will draw the vital elements from the air in the form of electricity which is negative, or spent force, and the food will shorten our life and disposes us of the land. If honey is ripened its electrical elements will be exchanged for magnetism.

G. W. DAYTON, OWENSMOUTH, CAL.

A Story of the New Republic

By EDWARD T. STEWART

Corneville had surrendered, and the independence of the United States was established. My regiment had been in my home in Pennsylvania. I had not borne no money for traveling purposes and got on as best I could, securing a lift here and using my current there, till I reached a point not a dozen miles from home. There I found a friend, who got out his coach and started me on the last relay between Yorktown and my father's estate. For I was sick and weary and could go no farther.

I started shortly before dark and had made half the distance when the coach came to a sudden stop, and a voice at the window cried out: "Your money or your life!"

"Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal." "Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal."

"I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal." "Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal."

"I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal." "Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal."

"I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal." "Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal."

"I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal." "Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal."

"I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal." "Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal."

"I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal." "Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal."

"I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal." "Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal."

"I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal." "Money I have none," I replied, "but my watch is at your disposal."

Madge paled a little, but said nothing. I led her to a place where we would not be observed and asked for an explanation. She confessed that she had put food into the mouths of her family who had taken to the road. She had not known that I was the person who had robbed of the lock and, since she had never opened it, did not know of the miniature it contained.

I brushed the matter up. Madge returned what she had appropriated of the goods of others, some of which she wore to the ball, and became one of the belles of the season.

Middle of Gravitation. Nearly 200 years ago one of the greatest intellects connected with science turned his attention to gravitation. In these 200 years physical science has made rapid advances. A boy who has completed a year's work in elementary physics could entertain Newton in electricity were it possible for the great philosopher to return to earth. After learning of the great progress in electricity we can imagine him in his eagerness for knowledge turning to the boy and expecting some light on gravitation. Alas! not only the light is gone, but not even the most learned boy can give any definite information on gravitation! The problem is where Newton left it.
