H. H. Davis and family are spending the week at Santa Barbara.

C. P. Hale and family are at home after several weeks' stay in the mountains.

Miss Bertha Hill has returned from Greeley, Neb., where she spent the summer with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Kolly had as guests last week Miss Biglow, Mrs. Biglow, Raymond Larson and Edward Collins, all of Oakland.

Mr. Walsh has been given the position of bookkeeper at the local warehouse. He has been engaged in business at Saugus for the past year.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Harbold received cards announcing the birth of a son, Edward Peyton Harbold, on August 23.

In equipping an army to defend the Stars and Stripes, Uncle Sam has always found it necessary to include beans in the specifications. Ever since the Revolutionary War, beans have played an important part in defining the lines. As ever before, the dash and courage of the American soldier is again being demonstrated to the world. Stamina and grit have always been a characteristic of soldiers under the Flag of Freedom, and it is a well-known fact that our army, in every way, has made beans its chief source of nourishment. This is conclusive proof that beans and ammunition go hand in hand in the winning of wars. The combination has never failed. Our boys in France are eating beans, our army at home is eating beans, and when this bean-eating bean-growing partnership is fully developed it will be "Pack your grip, Mr. Kaiser."

Various Kinds of Food.

A bulletin issued by the New York Museum of Natural History states that one tribe of North American Indians regarded a mixture of pulverized ants, grasshoppers, and locusts, dried in the sun, as a relish. Another tribe preferred grasshoppers and crickets with roasted ants as a variety. Moths, the bulletin added, are a favorite dish in Africa, and lumbermen in Maine are said to enjoy an occasional meal of large black wood-wasps. The beetle is eaten in Turkey, the Nile valley, Lombardy, Moldavia, Java, Peru, and Venezuela, and is said to be very nutritious and fattening. In Central America the eggs of three aquatic bugs are served as "cakes." In Nyassaland a paste of mayflies and mosquitoes is considered a delicacy. The Mexicans manufacture a drink as strong as their punch by infusing a tree beetle in alcohol.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN TUESDAY

Regular work in the schools will begin next Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. The office of the High School will be open from 9 to 11 and from 2 to 4 on Monday. Beginning students who desire information concerning courses of study and any who wish to make change in their schedules should report some time during the day, as there will be but little time on Tuesday for consultation. School will be dismissed at 2 o'clock the first day.

Outlines of the course of study for the coming year have been printed and may be had by calling at the office. Students who cannot begin regular work on Tuesday should report for registration or have their parents register for them. Boys of draft age will find it greatly to their advantage to enroll as students of the school.

All students who enter on Tuesday should come provided with pencil and tablet. These may be bought at the school store if desired. Students should also come prepared to pay their student body dues of one dollar and Red Cross dues of twenty-five cents. Keys for lockers may be had by making a deposit of twenty-five cents. This will be returned when the key is turned in at the end of the year.

New and second-hand books will be for sale at the school store, but students should determine their courses definitely before buying books. Those who have books in good condition may turn them in on other books, but only books that are to be used in the school and are in good order will be accepted. All such books should be turned in the first day of school.

It is the intention to provide transportation for students living at a distance, but arrangements will not be completed for several days after the opening of school. Those who wish transportation should report to the principal as soon as possible so that suitable accommodation may be made. Any person having a bus or convert the truck who wishes to apply for the job of providing transportation should see the business manager of the school department at 1445 San Pedro street, Los Angeles. Full information may be had by consulting the principal.

COOPERATION

As Kipling puts it:
"It ain't the guns nor armament,
Nor funds that they can pay,
But the close cooperation,
That makes them win the day."
This is no longer a theory, but is a proven fact. It applies to every condition and every thing. It applies to the bean industry and those engaged in it, as well as it does to anything else. The bean interests of the country are wisely mastered, and every section has its own peculiarities and problems. To succeed in every way, and to develop the industry as it should be developed, cooperation of all is essential. Now, as never before, and possibly as never again, is the time for the bean industry to join hands for the discussion of problems and the working out of ideas for the betterment and the uplift of the bean and its followers. There are various bean organizations throughout the country, bean growers, bean jobbers, bean millers, etc. These various associations have heretofore laid low and kept their ideas and problems to themselves. Would it not be a good thing for the industry as a whole, if these various organizations could get together at some centrally located place and discuss their problems and the composition of the various state and local organizations? It would undoubtedly result to the benefit of all.

"It ain't the individual,
Nor the army as a whole,
But the everlasting teamwork,
Of every bloomin' soul."

MUCH SKIM MILK IS SAVED

Large Quantities Formerly Thrown into Sewer Now Made into Cottage Cheese.

One creamery in the state of New York is condensing every day 25,000 pounds of skim milk, much of which formerly was run into the sewer, and several creameries now make their entire supply of skim milk into cottage cheese. These examples are cited in the annual report of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, as showing any fogs effected through the campaign for conservation of all products that can increase the supply of food.

MARIAN NOTES

Mrs. Horace Moore and babies are visiting her parents in Tregent, Tenn. Mrs. Alex. Jeffrey and two children are spending several weeks at Balfour Beach.

The Misses Helen Lake and Mary McLoach are visiting Mrs. F. T. Beattie and son Charles L. Davis at Santa Ana.

Miss E. Engstrom entertained the Four Leaf Clover Club at her home Friday afternoon. Those present were Mrs. I. L. Warden, Mrs. G. Shewalter, Mrs. Wm. McLoach, Mrs. H. E. Lord, Mrs. Frederica and Mrs. Eckels.

As Mr. Marvin McClure was on his way home from the playhouse at San Pedro Sunday, in changing cars he stepped directly in front of an approaching car and was instantly killed. Funeral services were held at Glendale Wednesday. Much sympathy is felt for Mrs. McClure and daughter Luchel. Mrs. McClure is principal of the Marian school.

THE FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

The biggest financial achievements of a nation accustomed to big finances, are being made in the purchase of the Fourth Liberty Loan. The coming loan will be at least twice as big as the first, and perhaps larger, dependent upon whether it is finally decided to call for six or eight billion dollars.

No matter what amount it is, we, the general public Americans, only know that six or eight billion dollars is needed. We know we will also be Germany's people, faltering at home as their soldiers are faltering beneath Pohl's banner in the field, only raised enough in their last loan, we are told, to pay interest on previous war loans. Turkey's last loanable effort before she left the Central Powers, was to raise twelve million dollars of a proposed thirty-two million dollar loan.

Alas! The human mind is a latent financial strength for a task unprecedented in history, will answer with confidence to the call from Washington for whatever sum is set at this time.

Real sacrifices of many comforts will be the means by which many American families swell their purchase of Fourth Liberty Loan bonds. Those who have been in the field, who have not been inclined to sympathize deeply with those who complain at slight economies in the interest of war funds.

Those who stay at home can make no sacrifice comparable with that which those who go on board ship for overseas duty may be called upon to make at any moment.

G. A. Huffaker, the Fordson tractor agent, will pay $100 reward through the Automobile Club of Southern California, $50 for information leading to arrest and conviction of the thieves, and $50 for recovery of stolen property.

THE LUMP IN HIS SIDE

A workman, almost ruined by a year, was induced to sign the pledge he went and removed it for life. He had just received his wages, and had the money in a bag in his pocket.

"Well, old man," said the saloonkeeper, "at whose place he used to drink."

"Well, old man," said the saloonkeeper, "how do you do?"

"Pretty well," the workman answered, "only I've got a hard lump here on my side."

"Oh," said the other, "it's cold water does that; if you'd drink some good liquor, it would soon take the lump away."

"That," said the man, "I have just renewed the pledge for life, and I can't do it."

"Then, mind what I say," said the saloonkeeper, "that lump will go on increasing, and very soon it will be so other year you'll have another on the other side."

"No, no," said the workman, "I hope I'll see my money bag and shaking it. It's cold cash."

A BOX FROM HOME

Food savings of millions of Americans during our first year of war enabled this government to send enormous food shipments abroad for our fighting forces and the Allied nations. Our savings in cereals—out of a short crop—amounted to 154,900,000 bushels; all of which was shipped to Europe. We increased our meat and fat shipments $64,000,000 worth to the Allied nations.

AMERICANS ASKED TO LIMIT USE OF SUGAR

Must Use No More Than Two Pounds Per Person a Month if the Present Meagre Allied Sugar Ration Is Maintained.

Stocks Will Be Short Until Beginning of New Year—Ration May Be Enlarged Then.

Two pounds of sugar a month—half a pound a week—that is the sugar ration the U. S. Food Administration has asked every American to observe until January 1, 1919, in order to make sure there shall be enough for our Army and Navy, for the Allied armies and for the civilians of those nations.

By New Year's the world sugar situation will be relieved somewhat by the new crop. Cuban sugar of this year's crop will be arriving in this country.

Every available sugar source will be drawn on by the Food Administration during the next winter months to maintain sufficient stocks here to keep up our national sugar supply. During October the first American beet sugar will arrive in the markets. By the middle of November some of our Louisiana cane crop will be available. All of this sugar and more may be needed to keep this nation supplied on a reduced ration and to safeguard the Allied sugar ration from still further reduction. In Europe the present ration is already reduced to a minimum.

Our situation. The situation which the United States faces in its efforts to maintain a fair distribution of sugar to the Allied world is as follows:

Sugar supplies throughout the country, in homes, stores, factories and bakeries are at a low ebb. We must make increased sugar shipments to the Allies.

Production of American beet and Louisiana cane crops have been disappointing.

Porto Rico crops have been curiously small.

Immense sugar stocks in Java cannot be reached on account of the shipping shortage; ships are needed for troop movements and munitions.

Army and Navy sugar requirements have increased as well as those from the Allies.

Americans using sugar have had their allotment reduced by one-half; some will receive no sugar.

Households should make every effort to preserve the fruit crop without sugar, or with small amounts of sugar. When the sugar supply is large, the canned fruit may be sweetened as it is used.

NOW OF LITTLE IMPORTANCE

Port Whence Sinsbad Sailed on Voyage of Trade and Adventure Has Decayed.

In spite of the evidences of modern industry, Beera was the port from which Sinsbad set out on his voyages of trade and adventure. Sinsbad was not a myth, but a real man with a sailor's love for the sights of foreign lands. Louis A. Spinger writes in Asia. It must have been a great event when he sailed away with his fleet of dhows and when he returned with treasures of fur-off China and the Eastern Islands. The Beera today is a moth little town in a clearing of palm trees two miles from the river, and at its port, instead of the ledged dhows are rusty tramp steamers with tawdry wares of the West. Farther up the valley, at Kurra, where the Euphrates and Tigris join, is the traditional site of the Garden of Eden; beyond are the ruins of Babylon and on the bank of the Tigris is the romantic city of Bagdad where Harun-al-Rashid, the great caliph, attracted the wit and the wealth of Islam and ruled in lavish splendor. Down the Arabian coast are great ruins, still almost unexplored. Lovat Fraser, a close student of this region, believes that some day it will be demonstrated that here was the scene of momentous events that determined the course of the human race while the shores of the Mediterranean were yet in impenetrable darkness and the first dim glimmerings of civilization dawned upon the mind of primitive man.

JUST WHAT IS SIMPLE LIFE?

Interesting Question Often Asked Is Here Answered by One Who Claims to Know.

Most of us are inclined to hold to the opinion that a man leading a simple life is a creature who necessarily has to walk barefooted or without the full outfit of modern clothes, and that it is only country folk who can lead that sort of life, by virtue of their contact with nature. Nothing could be further from the truth. A millionaire occupying a mansion on Fifth avenue leading the simple life, if in his discharge of daily duties he looks upon his fellow man as his brother, and does not enlarge in his own eyes his importance, due to his paternal residence or to expensive clothes, and who walks around barefooted from necessity, or who wears the simplest kind of clothes because he cannot afford others, and goes about with envy in his heart toward every being who possesses more than he does, is far from living the simple life in thought or deed or in any other manner.

To lead a simple life one has but to regard it in the spirit in which things are done, and the spirit in which life is lived. That is the essential thing in this application to dress to work, to education, thoughts and pleasures and, I might say, just that which I should have said first, to material dealings between a man and his fellow beings—Maha Appetuum in the Humanitarian.

ROMANCE IN RUSKIN'S LIFE

Divergent Religious Views for Long Time Separated Him From the Woman He Loved.

In 1890 Ruskin declared his love for Beata La Touche and told her parents of his hope to make her his wife, says J. Howard Whitehouse in Scribner's. There was a great difference of views between them. Ruskin was forty-seven; Beata was in her eighteenth year. There was some natural hesitation on the part of the parents, and it was arranged that the matter should be postponed for three years.

But when the period of probation was ended, new difficulties arose. There was hesitation not only on the part of the parents, but also by Beata. Miss La Touche was of a deeply religious nature, but her views were orthodox and she did not share the wider views of spiritual questions in which Ruskin increasingly believed.

Her love for him had never waned since the days of her childhood; but she doubted if, holding the views she did, she could marry him. Both she and Ruskin suffered the deepest distress.

For a little time there was correspondence, and there is a moving story in Ruskin's diary in the 1910s: "Last Friday about twelve o'clock a noon my mistress passed me and would not speak." In the following year there was reconciliation.

The end of Ruskin's dream came in 1878. Miss La Touche's health never again began to fail, and she died in May of that year.

RESENTED TRIBUTE TO DEY

Jefferson's Action in Tripoli Set Example That Was Followed by All Christian Nations.

The first treaty with Algiers, which was negotiated during Washington's administration, cost the United States, for the ransom of American captives, $1,000,000, in addition to which an annuity was promised. In 1800 President Adams claimed that the United States had to pay three times the tribute imposed upon Sweden and Denmark.

But this humiliating policy only made matters worse. Captain Bainbridge arrived in Algiers, bearing the annual tribute for the day in a national frigate, and the dey ordered him to proceed to Constantinople to deliver Algerian dispatches. "English, French and Spanish ships of war have done the same thing," said the dey indignantly, when Bainbridge and the American consul remonstrated. "You slaves" replied the bey, who was playing the role assumed in later years by the kaiser. Jefferson had expressed his detestation of the method hitherto favored for satisfying these pests of commerce; and, availing himself of the present opportunity, he sent on Commodore Dale with a squadron of three frigates and a sloop of war to make a naval demonstration on the Barbary coast. The Barbary powers were for a time overawed, and the United States thus set the first example among the Christian nations of making reprisals instead of ransom, the rule of security against these marauders. Ruskin declared war against the United States June 10, 1801.

GOOD-BY, JOHN BARLEYCORN.
Bowed in the cradle of the deep,
The King Ruler of the deep,
Borne he rears beneath the wave,
The wind that blows in the air,
His reign on earth was long and sweet,
The wind that blows in the air,
His red complexion soon will fade,
The wind that blows in the air,
The bar he checks for lack of funds,
The wind that blows in the air,
His mid-eyed vendors look amazed,
The wind that blows in the air,
For father's weak-and-och, hard-earned,
The wind that blows in the air,
And mother's glad to hear the news,
The wind that blows in the air,
No more to get new boots and shoes;
The wind that blows in the air,
They now can travel wide and far,
The wind that blows in the air,
No more to get the motor car,
The wind that blows in the air,

LABOR PAYS THE TAXES.
The statement made by the brewers that national prohibition "would produce anger, resentment and dissatisfaction among millions of American workers" was forcefully disposed of by Senator Jones of Washington in the amendment debate in the United States senate. He said:

"It is a base libel upon American workmen. They are as loyal and patriotic a class as we have. They will make the greatest sacrifices for their country, and surely they will resent this base slander. Labor protests against its unjust burden. It complains of the smallness of its share of the proceeds of its toil, but does it realize how it is being used to its own detriment by the liquor traffic? Does it realize that the liquor interests are seeking to place upon it a tremendous tax burden for the years to come? They pay to the government two or three hundred millions in taxes. From whom does this come? Not from the pockets of the saloon man, the brewer, or distiller, but largely from the pockets of the laborer. What do the liquor interests propose to do now? They magnanimously accept an increase in their taxes. They say they will cheerfully pay four or five hundred millions in taxes to the government. Who will they get to get this money? From the laborer. Of course they are glad to pay if some one will put up the money. How does labor like this cheerful imposition of two or three hundred millions additional taxes upon its earnings?"

Bad Signs.
