REAL STUFF

BUILD up the blood and the blood builds up the body.

The first requirement for the blood purification is the introduction of a strong fruit acid to cut the slime like sour, curdles milk to produce whey. Then the whey evaporates out through the skin as the curd passes out through the lungs. That portion of the filthy matter which escapes through the skin is red and the part that goes out through the lungs is blue.

If you put 1-10 of the crop back into the soil you get seven times as much crop result. Some churchmen think we should hand the tenth to the preacher so the preacher can have a good time dining at the restaurant, riding on the cars and paying the tailor. While it makes life a snap for the preacher the preacher would not be respected if he engaged in laborious action. No layman would respect a preacher that works. Work would cause the preacher to become real fact.

Your crops would not be increased seven times the bulk but there would be seven times the amount of vitamins or dynamic force. In our cells are seven colors—the seven rainbow colors. Each of these colors represents a different form of iron or magnetism contained by the cells. At the first the cells are red. After the cells pass through one night the red becomes dry, or dead. But the dead matter still is red—even brighter red than when the red was alive. The second day instead of red orange or yellow red is produced. Then during the second night the orange dies, which produces brighter red. The next day follows pale green, blue, indigo and violet for six days and six nights. Then comes one day and one night of no-color, which is white.

For the first three days water is taken in and the cells develop and the last three days water is expelled and cells ripen. By producing and eating the red that uses water the duration of the cells is lengthened. By eating the red every day the cells will be held in the same living, energetic condition day after day instead of life receding by the ripening process.

Old age is produced by ripening of the cells. To prevent old age coming on eat young, living food. Cells are red when they are young and also red when they are old. One is produced by water while the other is produced by dryness and heat. While the cells are red, yellow and green they use water but pale green, blue and violet use water in the gaseous form.

If the soil is fertilized with the leaves and branches or with fruit or seeds which contain the red ions it increases the red seven times by eliminating the gas which forms the other six colors. If the soil be fertilized with any other color than red it produces white, old age. To control the digestion with any other color than red is to court disease and old age.

To remain young we have to eat food that is young. Cooking, cold storage, impoverished land, and so forth causes food to develop the cells which hasten old age. Old age is produced by eating the red that is the latter end of the cells. Youth is produced by eating the red that is at the beginning of the cells. One kind of red is produced by age going out and the other is produced by age coming in. One uses moisture in the form of water out of the earth while the other uses moisture as it is in the air.

One causes people to live and to practice according to their past habits while the other causes them to live and practice for their future welfare. It is not what we possess but what we produce that constitutes life. Plenty of persons can understand the operations in the production of food but then they want to stand still and buy food of some one instead of producing.

The real life force puts people to work and thinking. Throughout the life and labor is muscular life. There is enough land in Germany to produce food for one hundred worlds like this and there is enough land in the small state of New Jersey to feed all of the people in the United States and China for twenty years by the harvesting of one single crop from the land.

People have forsaken natural laws and substituted laws to favor their own selfish desires. After their minds and flesh have become changed from the natural then they come back to try to live on earth. The result of present day theology is to teach the people to turn the stones into bread. As a matter of fact stones may be turned into the bread but in eating the bread the flesh and brains turned into stone by the laws of action and reaction.

Bread made from stones don't react against itself but it reacts against the cells of the person that eats it. It serves the purpose as bread to sell but it is not right for food. Bread from stones has the greater bulk but it lacks the color. By lack of color it cannot absorb the elements of sunlight. By lack of new energy from sunlight the energy that is left in the body is used over and over by the selection of a lower and lower grade of germs out of their.

It is the digestion of foods by the different varieties of germs out of the air that causes wars, disputations, and quarrels between nations and peoples, men and women and between man and the animal. The proper digestion is produced when the temperature is at 60°, and as the cells are developing instead of at the time the cells are diminishing.

LETTER NO. ONE

SOLDIER PALS AT ARMY MESS CALL

French Tote Share Yankee Soldiers' Rations—Women's War Parts Great

By Mrs. Hazel Pedlar Faulkner
The little children in this neighborhood have learned to distinguish the mess call.

Immediately it is sounded, they troop out from every conceivable corner, taking their places around the mess, reaching with eager, hungry eyes every bite that is dished out. A fellow can't eat his prison very comfortably with such an audience, and the men here have divided every meal with these little fellows, who are the children of men saving France.

A "home-town" private, one of the Easterners who has been building railroads in France, sent that message home. He is one of the men who has been dividing his daily ration of soup, beans, of meat and prunes, with the children who are the food of France.

WOMEN GIVE WEHAT,

SONS AND MONEY

American women, everywhere, and Western women second to none, have borne their part in the fight. They have saved their meat and their wheat, they have given their husbands and sons, their money is going now. In the first, second and third Liberty loans they have invested their dollars. Opportunity to serve has come again. The Government is seeking funds. It is asking for the third of its three-fold need—men, munitions and money.

The hand that rocked the cradle holding the purse strings in these momentous days. For their boys Western mothers will not withhold the needed gold. America has started on the road to Berlin. The way is a long one, and traveling is difficult. But the journey must be made, and the pilgrims must be equipped.

It is no longer a question of "shall we buy bonds" with American mothers. That was answered when the boys went over there. It is no longer a question of "can we buy bonds." The experience of the first three loans has answered that.

The question for Western women, in company with women all over the land, to answer is "what is the limit to which I can, by sacrifice and saving, by going without and working for—what is the limit which I can reach?"

French Sugar Mills Destroyed

France must import sugar today, most of it from this side of the ocean, because the largest portion of French sugar beet land is in German hands. As a result, the French people have been placed on a sugar ration of about 18 pounds a year for domestic use, a pound and a half a month. This photograph shows how the German troops destroyed French sugar mills. Thanks to the French rationing system the annual consumption has been cut to 800,000 tons, according to reports reaching the United States Food Administration. Before the war France had an average sugar crop of about 100,000 tons of sugar and had some left over for export.

GET OUT OF THE LIQUOR BUSINESS, UNCLE SAM.

In every honest business transaction there are three parties concerned, the seller, the buyer, and the community generally. The business which gives profit or gain to one party and flocces itself of the other two parties is a swindle. Test the liquor traffic by this standard and mark the result. Two men, Brown and Green, each have 500 thousand dollars. Brown spends his money in whiskey. Result? The whiskey seller gets the thousand dollars and makes a profit. Brown has parted with his thousand dollars and got—nothing, plus impaired health, ruined character, degraded life, and perhaps a criminal record. The community is impoverished by the amount of waste of wealth of one of its members, plus the poverty, disorder, accident, crime, etc., which attends his drinking, and the consequent taxation levied. Green spends the money in building a house with the following results: The builder gets the money and makes a profit on the building; Green has parted with his money, but now has a house equal in value to the money, plus the comfort and increased affluence, social standing and credit which attends a property owner. The community is benefited by the wise expenditure of one of its members, together with the imposition of taxes which the property will pay. Every citizen is interested in every new building, no matter who is the owner. The legislation which gives license to waste, and takes a revenue from it, is doing the worst that can possibly be done for the interest of my country.—Prof. John A. Nicholls.

TWO CARDINALS.

Cardinal Gibbons, American—As an opponent of any state-wide or nationwide prohibition measure, the law of this kind interferes with the personal liberty and rights of the people and creates hypocrisy on the part of the public. The history of the world down to the present time demonstrates the fact that the people have and always will indulge in intoxicants. Intoxicants, however, do not exert a restraining power that it is attempted to ascribe upon them.

Cardinal Mercier, Belgian:—“You who hold the Christian faith look around you at those who suffer from the effect of alcoholism. Can we be inane to the spectacle of this misery and pass by on the other side? No, indeed! I am only too glad to charge my duty as a Catholic, as a priest, as a bishop, in coming to cooperate with you in the struggle against alcoholism. While waiting for our government to take action, we have a right to take action. We have no right to be inactive. Private initiative should not wait until they are first of all of educating public opinion, preparing the way for intervention by law.”

Which is the more civilized—the more Christian—the more

CHICKENS, BROKEN GLASS AND LIQUOR.

Arrests for permitting chickens to run at large and for throwing broken glass in the streets outnumbered the arrests for drunkenness during the year 1917 in the city of Boston, with a population of 12,000, says the Morning Oregonian. The arrests for drunkenness were only eight for the entire year. The score against chickens running at large and against broken glass was ten. Total number of offenders in the records for the year was 18. In every hundred cases there were many single days when the city had saloons, or when the liquor traffic flourished at Springfield three miles away. Under the law permitting two quart saloons every twenty-eight days there were 32 arrests during 1917. The last year with the open saloons at Springfield 200 arrests were made.

DOORS CLOSING TO DRINKING EMPLOYER.

These scientific findings are illuminating: “It requires 15 men indulging in one glass of beer daily to do the work which should properly be done by 13 abstersions.” “A drinking man diminishes extremities of temperature as well; he cannot bear heat or cold as well; he cannot lift as much or lift it as often. He cannot walk far, dig as much or carry as an absterion.” Plaster it, it is for the mutual interests of the workman and employer that drinking shall cease. More than a million respectable positions in the United States, it is reliably computed, are now closed to the man who uses alcoholic liquors. “There is as much place in business for alcohol,” affirms Mr. Wilson, “as for sand in an engine.”—Anna A. Gordon.

High fidelity. Miss Richen-Fricky—My parents' wedding was very exclusive, ducha know. They were married in the Little Church Around the Corner, in New York. Miss Pueron-Sassy—Posh, that's nicidia! Mine went up in a balloon at the state fair and took the preacher with 'em.

All Wrong, Napoleon.
“The dull, drab years of middle age” is the way a M. C. A. worder classifies the period in a man's life from thirty-five to forty-five. He says that men of this age are frequenters of saloons, that they are mostly married and that they are not as desirous of the way of citizenship as the male individuals of seventeen to twenty-four, who spend much time with the law-abeaders, or the male individuals more than forty-five, for that they are pension forty-five and subsequently surviving the “dull, drab years,” a fellow turns his attention to things spiritual, generally to chess work, and begins to live again. “The truth is,” said a passer of the rail, “this U. M. C. A. class seems to have made a good many academic students of the saloon long, the real solution. No better explanation ever has been made or ever will be made than that men go to the saloon because they have no place else to go that gives them the same sort of unconventional welcome. They go there not because their years are dull and drab, but because the gregarious instinct calls them.”—New York Sun.

Dental Trust Must Go

Amendment to Dental Law Breaks Power of Combine and Safeguards Interests of All

More than 125,000 Californians have asked to have the Dental Law amended.

If you knew how the present Dental Law operates you would realize that never has there been greater reason for change in a law.

Dental laws are made at the command of a combine of political dentists for their own profit, under the excuse, "protection for the people."

This permits them to fix high prices, and hold them high, by regulating competition.

High prices make a luxury of dentistry and put it out of reach of eighty per cent of the people.

This amendment brings dentistry within reach of all the people.

It secures the services of highly skilled dentists, permitted to charge reasonable fees.

It permits dentists to give openly to the public information the people should have about the care of their teeth.

Yes! I have personal interest in this measure. The Dental Trust seeks to ruin those it cannot control, depriving the people of fair prices which come only through competition.

Huge sums of money are being used to cloud the issue, so that the interests of the people may be made secondary to the profits of the dentists.

This is your fight to make it possible for people of moderate means to save their teeth.

End this autocracy.

The Dental Amendment will be No. 21 on the ballot.

PAINLESS PARKER

Big Ben

the clock you've read so much about in the magazines, arrived in our store yesterday with 23 brothers.

They're the finest alarm clocks we've ever laid eyes on. They're built right and night from the ground up. We're practical clock men and we know.

They'll be in our window for the rest of the week and we wish you'd come in and look them over.

On account of increased cost of manufacture, Big Ben and Baby Ben are now $3 each. Sold by A. E. HARTMAN, Van Nuys
