Population of County Growing

The annual report of the board of supervisors of Los Angeles County, received through the courtesy of the supervisor Jonathan S. Dodge, shows a number of very interesting facts that may be of interest to our readers.

It may surprise some of our people to know that Los Angeles County, comprising about 10 per cent of the population of California, has a total area of 10,000 square miles. The population of the county is approximately 1,100,000, or about 10 per cent of the total population of the state.

The population of Los Angeles County is about equal to that of the state of Maine or the state of Colorado. The population of the county is growing rapidly, and it is estimated that the population of the county will reach 1,500,000 by the year 1930.
