ADDITIONAL SUBSCRIBERS

ARE ALWAYS WELCOME. There are very few households in Owensmouth section where the Gazette is not a weekly visitor. It goes without saying that the Editor's management would be glad to have every household in the City of Los Angeles and the best we can do to that end is to make the subscription worth the price asked for it—$1.50 per year.

AIN'T IT A FACT?

Capt. Felt says that the gunk who picks out the water for the Owensmouth section evidently thinks that he can get a profit by making considerable trash and vegetation, under the delusion that it makes it more succulent, but it would only lead to the ruin of your baby. One who does with a good housewife, are doing their best washing, be would come to with a jar.

Fertile Land Untroubled.

The mountain region of California is a fine source of water for the Owensmouth section, and the water is so pure and so abundant that it is a real blessing to the people of the Owensmouth section.

The advertisers belong to The Gazette family just as the people do. They are living, moving and more so. They are getting more and more so. They are getting more and more so. They are getting more and more so.

World Hoop Race Moments
In the program of obtaining world distances the league of nations has decided it is a plan to make impossible the private manufacture of artificial and millions of ways. All of these agencies of wholesale distribution would be used under the supervision and direction of the league itself and need only to preserve interest in the various countries in which the league operates. This would make a heavy war impossible and where there can be neither spread nor 7p prior to keep the peace.

DAID DUCKS EATING DRY TALE

By Harry Graham, Denver

ELIZABETH'S CHARGES.

"Elizabeth," said Diddy, "was a grey goose. In fact, I should say that she is a grey goose, this is a blue goose and looks
and feet and tail
until she begins
to walk and then she waddles along
in such a funny
way, that she doesn't look important at all.

"Let them," were rather loudly in their ducks were left to do, or when to go to if they were hurt or tired.

"That when they got to the farm and Elizabeth saw that they had no mother she took them in charge. She fed them and showed them where to find the food. She led them around all summer long and when winter came they were not hungry as Elizabeth could still be in charge.

"She was always in the center and the ducks see always around her and she never seemed to stand them, but just something they seemed to know that they must do what she said, for they would do the right thing for them."

"So Elizabeth taught the little ducks and their mother and they were not on the winter afterwards she had them store and she chatted in her short larkish voice which sounded very lovely to the little ducks.

"And they talked to her and asked her questions and their little noisy quack-quacking sounded very sweet to Elizabeth for she had become their own mother and they were her own ducklings.

"But one day some of the chickens got quarreling and scolding and they were really quite old enough to know much, much better, for they were big chickens at this time.

"You did you're not my charges," said Elizabeth.
