Some Aspects of the Farmers' Problems

By BERNARD M. BARUCH
(Reprinted from Atlantic Monthly)

As an example of interesting, take the steel industry. In which the United States Trust Corporation, with its iron mines, its coke and its transportation, its steel plants, its pig-iron works, its blast furnaces, its open-hearth and its steel mills and other manufacturing plants, has made in the last few years a profit of $100,000,000. All this is generally accounted for on the basis of the fact that the corporation has been able to sell its products on the market. On the contrary, it is not true that it is necessary to sell its products as it often has done with other large corporations. It is true that the products are sold here and there, but it is not true that they are sold in such quantities as to make a profit. It is not true that they are sold in such quantities as to make a profit. It is not true that they are sold in such quantities as to make a profit.
